To the Right Honourable

John Lord Haughton.

My Lord,

WHEN I first design'd this Play, I found, or thought I found, somewhat so moving in the serious part of it, and so pleasant in the Comick, as might deserve a more than ordinary Care in both: Accordingly I us'd the best of my endeavour, in the management of two Plots, so very different from each other, that it was not, perhaps, the Talent of every Writer, to have made them of a piece. Neither have I attempted other Plays of the same nature, in my opinion, with the same Judgment; though with like success. And though many Poets may suspect themselves for the fondness and partiality of Parents to their youngest Children; yet, I hope I may stand exempted from this Rule, because I know myself too well to be ever satisfied with my own Conceptions, which have seldom reach'd to those Ideas that I had within me: and consequently, I presume I may have liberty to judge when I write more or less pardonably, as an ordinary Marksman may know certainly when he shoots less wide at what he aims. Besides, the Care and Pains I have bestow'd on this, beyond my other Tragi-Comedies, may reasonably make the World conclude, that either I can do nothing tolerably, or that this Poem is not much amiss. Few good Pictures have been finish'd at one sitting; neither can a true just Play, which is to bear the Test of Ages, be produc'd at a heat, or by the force of Fancy, without the maturity of Judgment. For my own part, I have both so just a Diffidence of my self, and so great a Reverence for my Audience, that I dare venture nothing without a strict Examination; and am as much asham'd to put a loose indigested Play upon the Publick, as I should be to offer brass Money in a Payment: For tho' it should be taken, (as it is too often on the Stage,) yet it will be found in the second telling: And a judicious Reader will discover in his Closet that trashy stuff, whose glittering deceiv'd him in the Action. I have often heard the Stationer sighing in his Shop, and wishing for those hands to take off his melancholy bargain which clapp'd its Performance on the Stage. In a Play-house every thing contributes to impose upon the Judgment; the Lights, the Scenes, the Habits, and, above all, the Grace of Action, which is commonly the best where there is the most need of it, surprise the Audience, and cast a mist upon their Understandings; not unlike the cunning of a Juggler, who is always staring us in the face, and overwhelming us with gibberish, only that he may gain the opportunity of making the cleaner conveyance of his Trick, But these false Beauties of the Stage are no more lasting than a Rainbow; when the Actor ceases to shine upon them, when he guilds them no longer with his reflection, they vanish in a twinkling. I have sometimes wonder'd, in the reading, what was become of those glaring Colours which amaz'd me in Bussy Damboys upon the Theatre: but when I had taken up what I suppos'd, a fallen Star, I found I had been cozen'd with a Jelly: nothing but a cold dull mass, which glitter'd no longer than it was shooting: A dwarfish thought dress'd up in gigantick words, repetition in abundance, looseness of expression and gross Hyperboles; the Sense of one line expanded prodigiously into ten: and, to sum up all, uncorrect English, and a hideous mingle of false Poetry and true Nonsense; or, at best, a scantling of Wit which lay gasping for life, and groaning beneath a Heap of Rubbish. A famous modern Poet us'd to sacrifice every year a Statius to Virgil's Manes: and I have Indignation enough to burn a Damboys annually to the memory of Johnson. But now, My Lord, I am sensible, perhaps, too late, that I have gone too far: for I remember some Verses of my own, Maximin and Almanzor, which cry Vengeance upon me for their Extravagance, and which I wish heartily in the same fire with Statius and Chapman: All I can say for those passages, which are I hope not many, is, that I knew they were bad enough to please, even when I writ them: But I repent of them amongst my Sins; and if any of their fellows intrude by chance into my present Writings, I draw a stroke over all those Dalilahs of the Theatre; and am resolv'd I will settle my self no reputation by the applause of Fools. 'Tis not that I am mortified to all ambition, but I scorn as much to take it from half-witted Judges, as I shou'd to raise an Estate by cheating of Bubbles. Neither do I discommend the lofty style in Tragedy which is naturally pompous and magnificent: but nothing is truly sublime that is not just and proper. If the Ancients had judg'd by the same measures which a common Reader takes, they had concluded Statius to have written higher than Virgil: for,

Quæ superimposito moles geminata Colosso, carries a more thundring kind of sound than

Tityre tu patulæ recubans sub tegmine fagi:

Yet Virgil had all the Majesty of a lawful Prince; and Statius only the blustering of a Tyrant. But when Men affect a Vertue which they cannot reach, they fall into a Vice, which bears the nearest resemblance of it. Thus an injudicious Poet, who aims at Loftiness, runs easily into the swelling puffed style, because it looks like Greatness. I remember, when I was a Boy, I thought imitatable

The Epistle Dedicatory.

imitable Spencer a mean Poet in comparifon of Sylvefter's Dubertas : and was rapt into an ecftafie, when I read thefe lines :

Now, when the Winters keener breath began
To Chryftallize the Baltick Ocean ;
To glaze the Lakes, to bridle up the Floods,
And periwig with Snow the bald-pate Woods :

I am much deceiv'd if this be not abominable fuffian, that is, thoughts and words ill fort'd, and without the leaft relation to each other : yet I dare not answer for an Audience, that they wou'd not clap it on the Stage : fo little value there is to be given to the common cry, that nothing but Madnefs can please Mad-men, and a Poet muft be of a piece with the Spectators, to gain a reputation with them. But, as in a room, contriv'd for State, the height of the roof shou'd bear a proportion to the Area ; fo, in the Heightenings of Poetry, the strength and vehemence of Figures shou'd be suited to the Occafion, the Subject, and the Persons. All beyond this is monftrous ; 'tis out of nature, 'tis an excrescence, and not a living part of Poetry. I had not faid thus much, if some young Gallants, who pretend to Criticism, had not told me, that this Tragi-comedy wanted the dignity of Style : but as a Man who is charg'd with a Crime of which he thinks himfelf innocent, is apt to be too eager in his own defence, fo perhaps, I have vindicated my Play with more partiality than I ought, or than fuch a trifle can deferve. Yet, whatever beauties it may want, 'tis free at leaft from the grofenefs of thofe faults I mention'd. What Credit it has gain'd upon the Stage, I value no farther than in reference to my Profit, and the fatisfaction I had in feeing it reprefented with all the juftnefs and gracefulness of Action. But as 'tis my Intereft to please my Audience, fo 'tis my Ambition to be read ; that I am fure is the more lafting and the nobler Design : for the propriety of thoughts and words, which are the hidden beauties of a Play, are but confus'dly judg'd in the vehemence of Action : All things are there beheld, as in a hasty motion, where the objects only glide before the Eye and difappear. The moft difcerning Critick can judge no more of thefe fient graces in the Action, than he who rides Poft through an unknown Country can diftinguifh the Situation of Places, and the Nature of the Soil. The purity of phrafe, the clearnefs of conception and expreffion, the boldnefs maintain'd to Majeftly, the fignificancy and found of words, not ftrain'd into bombaft, but juftly elevated ; in fhort, thofe very words and thoughts, which cannot be chang'd, but for the worfe, muft of neceffity efcape our tranfient view upon the Theatre ; and yet without all thefe a Play may take : For if either the Story move us, or the Actor help the lamenefs of it with his performance, or now and then a glittering beam of Wit or Paflion ftrike through the obfcurity of the

The Epistle Dedicatory.

the Poem, any of these are sufficient to effect a present liking, but not to fix a lasting admiration; for nothing but Truth can long continue; and Time is the surest Judge of Truth. I am not vain enough to think I have left no faults in this, which that touchstone Wit will not discover; neither indeed is it possible to avoid them in a Play of this nature. There are evidently two Actions in it: But it will be clear to any judicious Man, that with half the pains I could have rais'd a Play from either of them: for this time I satisfied my own humour, which was to tack two Plays together; and to break a rule for the pleasure of variety. The truth is, the Audience are grown weary of continu'd melancholy Scenes: and I dare venture to prophesie, that few Tragedies, except those in verse, shall succeed in this Age, if they are not lighten'd with a course of mirth; for the Feast is too dull and Solemn without the Fiddles. But how difficult a task this is, will soon be try'd: for a several Genius is requir'd to either way; and without both of them, a Man in my opinion, is but half a Poet for the Stage. Neither is it so trivial an undertaking, to make a Tragedy end happily; for 'tis more difficult to save, than 'tis to kill. The Dagger and the Cup of Poison are always in a readiness; but to bring the Action to the last extremity, and then by probable means to recover all, will require the Art and Judgment of a Writer, and cost him many a pang in the performance.

And now, My Lord, I must confess that what I have written looks more like a Preface than a Dedication; and truly it was thus far my design, that I might entertain you with somewhat in my own Art, which might be more worthy of a noble mind, than the stale exploded Trick of fulsome Panegyrics. 'Tis difficult to write justly on any thing, but almost impossible in Praise. I shall therefore wave so nice a subject; and only tell you, that in recommending a Protestant Play, to a Protestant Patron, as I do my self an Honour, so I do your Noble Family a Right, who have been always eminent in the support and favour of our Religion and Liberties. And if the promises of your Youth, your Education at home, and your Experience abroad, deceive me not, the Principles you have embrac'd are such as will no way degenerate from your Ancestors, but refresh their memory in the minds of all true English-men, and renew their lustre in your Person; which, My Lord, is not more the wish than it is the constant expectation of your Lordship's

Most Obedient,

Faithful Servant,

JOHN DRYDEN.

PROLOGUE.

NOW Luck for us, and a kind hearty Pit ;
For he who pleases, never fails of Wit :

Honour is yours,

And you, like Kings, at City Treats bestow it ;

The Writer kneels, and is bid rise a Poet :

But you are fickle Sovereigns, to our Sorrow,

You dubb to day and hang a Man to morrow ;

You cry the same Sense up, and down again,

Just like brass money once a Tear in Spain :

Take you i' th' mood, whate'er base metal come,

You coin as fast as Groats at Broomingam :

Though 'tis no more like Sense in ancient Plays,

Than Rome's Religion like St. Peter's days.

In short, so swift your Judgments turn and wind,

You cast our fleetest Wits a mile behind.

'Twere well your Judgments but in Plays did range,

But e'en your Follies and Debauches change

With such a Whirl, the Poets of your age

Are tyr'd, and cannot score 'em on the Stage,

Unless each Vice in short-hand they indite,

Ev'n as notcht Prentices whole Sermons write.

The heavy Hollanders no Vices know

But what they us'd a hundred years ago,

Like honest Plants, where they were stuck they grow ;

They cheat, but still from cheating Sires they come ;

They drink, but they were christen'd first in Mum.

Their patrimonial Sloth the Spaniards keep,

And Philip first taught Philip how to sleep.

The French and we still change, but here's the Curse,

They change for better, and we change for worse ;

They take up our old trade of Conquering,

And we are taking theirs, to dance and sing :

Our Fathers did for change to France repair,

And they for change will try our English Air ;

As Children, when they throw one Toy away,

PROLOGUE.

*So we, grown penitent, on serious thinking,
Leave Whoring, and devoutly fall to drinking.
Scowring the Watch grows out of fashion, wit
Now we set up for Tilting in the Pit,
Where 'tis agreed by Bullies, chicken-hearted,
To fright the Ladies first, and then be parted.
A fair Attempt has twice or thrice been made,
To hire Night Murth'ers, and make Death a Trade,
When Murther's out, what Vice can we advance ?
Unless the new found Pois'ning Trick of France :
And when their Art of Rats-bane we have got,
By way of thanks, we'll send 'em o'er our Plot.*

SPANISH FRYAR: OR THE Double Discovery.

---

A C T I.

Alphonso, Pedro meet, with Souldiers on each side, Drums, &c.

Alph. Stand : give the Word.

Pedro. The Queen of Arragon.

Alph. Pedro ? ——— how goes the night ?

Pedro. She wears apace.

Alph. Then welcome day-light : We shall have warm work on't :
The Moor will 'gage
His utmost Forces on this next Assault,
To win a Queen and Kingdom :

Pedro. Pox o' this Lion-way of wooing though :
Is the Queen stirring yet ?

Alph. She has not been a-bed : but in her Chapel
All night devoutly watch'd : and brib'd the Saints
With Vows for her Deliverance.

Pedro. O, Alphonso,
I fear they come too late ! her Father's crimes
Sit heavy on her ; and weigh down her prayers :
A Crown usurp'd ; a lawfull King depos'd ;
In bondage held ; debarr'd the common light ;
His Children murder'd, and his Friends destroy'd :
What can we less expect than what we feel,
And what we fear will follow ?

Alph. Heav'n avert it !

Pedro. Then Heav'n must not be Heav'n : Judge the event
By what has pass'd : The Usurper joy'd not long
His ill-got Crown ! 'Tis true, he dy'd in peace :
Unriddle that ye Pow'rs : But left his Daughter,
Our present Queen, engag'd, upon his Death-bed,
To marry with young Bertran, whose curs'd Father
Had help'd to make him great.

B

Hence

The Spanish Fryar ; or,

Hence, you well know, this fatal War arose ;
Because the Moor, Abdalla, with whose Troops
Th' Usurper gain'd the Kingdom, was refus'd ;
And, as an Infidel, his Love despis'd.

Alph. Well ; we are Souldiers, Pedro : and like Lawyers, Plead for our Pay.

Pedro. A good Cause wou'd do well though :
It gives my Sword an Edge : You see this Bertran
Has now three times been beaten by the Moors :
What hope we have, is in young Torrismond,
Your Brother's Son.

Alph. He's a successfull Warriour,
And has the Souldiers hearts : Upon the skirts
Of Arragon, our squander'd Troops he rallies ;
Our Watchmen, from the Tow'rs, with longing Eyes
Expect his swift Arrival.

Pedro. It must be swift, or it will come too late.

Alph. No more : — Duke Bertran. [Enter Bertran, attended.

Bertr. Relieve the Cent'ries that have watch'd all night.

To Ped. Now, Colonel, have you dispos'd your Men,
That you stand idle here ?

Pedro. Mine are drawn off,
To take a short repose.

Bertr. Short let it be :

For, from the Moorish Camp, this hour and more,
There has been heard a distant humming noise,
Like Bees disturb'd, and arming in their hives.
What Courage in our Souldiers ? Speak ! What hope ?

Pedro. As much as when Physicians shake their heads,
And bid their dying Patient think of Heav'n.
Our Walls are thinly mann'd : our best Men slain :
The rest, an heartless number, spent with Watching,
And haras'd out with Duty.

Bertr. Good night all then.

Pedro. Nay, for my part, 'tis but a single life
I have to lose ; I'll plant my Colours down
In the mid branch, and by 'em fix my foot :
Say a short Souldier's Pray'r, to spare the trouble
Of my few Friends above : and then expect
The next fair Bullet.

Alph. Never was known a night of such distraction :
Noise so confus'd and dreadfull : Justling Crowds,
That run, and know not whither : Torches gliding,
Like Meteors by each other in the streets.

Pedro. I met a reverend, fat, old, gouty Fryar ;
With a Paunch swoln so high, his double Chin
Might rest upon't : A true Son of the Church ;
Fresh colour'd, and well thriven on his Trade,

The Double Discovery.

Come puffing with his greazy bald-pate Quire,
And fumbling o'er his Beads, in such an Agony,
He told 'em false for fear : About his Neck
There hung a Wench ; the Label of his Function ;
Whom he shook off, i'faith, methought, unkindly.
It seems the holy Stallion durst not score

[Enter a Captain.

Cap. To Arms, My Lord, to Arms.
From the Moors Camp the noise grows louder still :
Rattling of Armour, Trumpets, Drums and Ataballes ;
And sometimes Peals of Shouts that rend the Heav'ns,
Like Victory : Then Groans again and Howlings,
Like those of vanquish'd Men : But every Echo
Goes fainter off, and dies in distant Sounds.

Bertr. Some false Attack ; expect on t'other side :
One to the Gunners on St. Jago's Tower ; Bid 'em for shame, Level their Cannon lower : On my Soul,
They're all corrupted with the Gold of Barbary
To carry over, and not hurt the Moor.

[Enter second Captain.

2. Cap. My Lord, here's fresh Intelligence arriv'd :
Our Army, led by Valiant Torrismond,
Is now in hot Engagement with the Moors ;
'Tis said, within their Trenches.

Bertr. I think all Fortune is reserv'd for him.
He might have sent us word though ;
And then we cou'd have favour'd his Attempt
With Sallies from the Town. ———

Alph. It cou'd not be :
We were so close block'd up that none cou'd peep
Upon the Walls and live : But yet 'tis time : ———

Bertr. No, 'tis too late ; I will not hazard it :
On pain of Death, let no Man dare to sally.

Pedr. (aside.) O Envy, Envy, how it works within him !
How now ! What means this show ?

Alph. 'Tis a Procession :
The Queen is going to the Great Cathedral
To pray for our Success against the Moors.

Pedr. Very good : She usurps the Throne ; keeps the old King in Prison ; and, at the same time, is praying for a Blessing : Oh Religion and Reguery, how they go together !

{ A Procession of Priests and Choristers in white, with Tapers, follow'd by the Queen and Ladies, goes over the Stage : the Choristers singing.

Look down, ye blest'd above, look down,
Behold our weeping Matrons Tears,
Behold our tender Virgins Fears,
And with success our Armies crown.

The Spanish Fryar; or,

Look down, ye blest above, look down :

Oh ! save us, save us, and our State restore ;

For Pity, Pity, Pity, we implore.

For Pity, Pity, Pity, we implore.

{ The Procession goes off; and shout within.

{ Then enter Lorenzo, who kneels to Alphonso.

Bertr. to Alph. A joyfull Cry : and see your Son Lorenzo :
Good news kind Heav'n !

Alph. to Lorenzo. O, Welcome; welcome! Is the General safe ?

How near our Army ? When shall we be succour'd ?

Or, Are we succour'd ? Are the Moors remov'd ?

Answer these Questions first, and then a Thousand more :

Answer 'em all together.

Lorenzo. Yes, when I have a thousand Tongues, I will.

The General's well: His Army too is safe

As Victory can make 'em : The Moors King

Is safe enough, I warrant him, for one.

At dawn of day our General cleft his Pate,

Spight of his woollen Night-cap : A slight wound :

Perhaps he may recover.

Alph. Thou reviv'st me.

Pedro. By my computation now, the Victory was gain'd before the Procession was made for it; and yet it will go hard, but the Priests will make a Miracle on't.

Lorenzo. Yes, Faith ; we came like bold intruding Guests ;

And took 'em unprepar'd to give us welcome :

Their Scouts we kill'd ; then found their Body sleeping :

And as they lay confus'd, we stumbl'd o'er 'em ;

And took what Joint came next ; Arms, Heads, or Legs ;

Somewhat undecently : But when Men want light,

They make but bungling work.

Bertr. I'll to the Queen,

And hear the News.

Pedro. That's young Lorenzo's duty.

Bertr. I'll spare his trouble. ———

This Torrismond begins to grow too fast ;

He must be mine, or ruin'd. [Aside.]

Lorenzo. Pedro, a word : ——— (whisper.)

[Exit Bertran.

Alph. How swift he shot away ! I find it stung him,

In spight of his dissembling.

To Lorenzo. How many of the Enemy are slain ?

Lorenzo. Troth, Sir, we were in haste ; and could not stay

To score the Men we kill'd : But there they lye.

Best send our Women out to take the tale ;

There's Circumcision in abundance for 'em.

The Double Discovery.

Alph. How far did you pursue 'em?

Lorenzo. Some few miles. ———

[Turns to Pedro again.

To Pedro. Good store of Harlots, say you, and dog-cheap?

Pedro. They must be had; and speedily:

I have kept a tedious Fast. (Whispers again.)

Alph. When will he make his Entry? He deserves

Such Triumphs as were given by ancient Rome:

Ha, Boy, What sayest thou?

Lorenzo. As you say, Sir, That Rome was very ancient ———

To Pedro. I leave the choice to you; Fair, Black, Tall, Low:

Let her but have a Nose: ——— and you may tell her

I'm rich in Jewels, Rings and bobbing Pearls

Pluck'd from Moors Ears. ———

Alph. Lorenzo?

Lorenzo. Somewhat busie

About Affairs relating to the publick. ———

—— A seasonable Girl, just in the nick now: ———

[to Pedro.

[Trumpets within.

Pedro. I hear the General's Trumpets: Stand, and mark

How he will be receiv'd; I fear, but coldly:

There hung a Cloud, methought, on Bertran's brow.

Lorenzo. Then look to see a Storm on Torrismond's:

Looks fright not Men: The General has seen Moors

With as bad Faces; no dispraise to Bertran's.

Pedro. 'Twas rumour'd in the Camp, he loves the Queen.

Lorenzo. He drinks her Health devoutly.

Alph. That may breed bad blood 'twixt him and Bertran.

Pedro. Yes, in private:

But Bertran has been taught the Arts of Court,

To guild a Face with Smiles; and leer a Man to ruine.

O here they come. ———

Enter Torrismond and Officers on one side: Bertran attended on the other; they embrace; Bertran bowing low.

Just as I prophecy'd. ———

Lorenzo. Death and Hell, he laughs at him: ——— in's Face too.

Pedro. O, you mistake him: 'Twas an humble Grin;

The fawning Joy of Courtiers and of Dogs.

Lorenzo. (Aside) Here are nothing but Lies to be expected: I'll e'en go lose my self in some blind Alley; and try if any courteous Damsel will think me worth the finding.

[Exit Lorenzo.

Alph. Now he begins to open.

Bertr. Your Country rescu'd, and your Queen reliev'd!

A glorious Conquest Noble Torrismond?

The People rend the Skies with loud Applause;

And Heav'n can hear no other Name but yours.

The thronging Crowds press on you as you pass;

And, with their eager Joy, make Triumph flow.

Torr.

Torr. My Lord, I have no taste
Of popular Applause ; the noise Praise
Of giddy Crowds, as changeable as Winds ;
Still vehement, and still without a cause :
Servants to Chance, and blowing in the tyde
Of swoln Success ; but, veering with its ebb,
It leaves the channel dry.

Bertr. So young a Stoick !

Torr. You wrong me, if you thing I'll sell one drop Within these Veins for Pageants : But let Honour
Call for my Blood ; and sluice it into streams ;
Turn Fortune loose again to my pursuit ;
And let me hunt her through embattel'd Foes,
In dusty Plains, amidst the Cannons roar,
There will I be the first.

Bertr. I'll try him farther ——— (Aside.)

Suppose th' assembled States of Arragon
Decree a Statue to you thus inscrib'd,
To Torrismond, who freed his native Land.

Alph. to Pedro. Mark how he sounds and fathoms him to find
The shallows of his Soul !

Bertr. The just Applause
Of God-like Senates, is the Stamp of Virtue,
Which makes it pass unquestion'd through the World :
These Honours you deserve ; nor shall my suffrage
Be last to fix 'em on you : If refus'd,
You brand us all with black Ingratitude ;
For times to come shall say, Our Spain, like Rome,
Neglects her Champions, after Noble Acts,
And lets their Laurels wither on their heads.

Torr. A Statue, for a Battel blindly fought,
Where Darknefs and Surprise made Conquest cheap !
Where Virtue borrow'd but the Arms of Chance,
And struck a random blow ! 'Twas Fortune's work ;
And Fortune take the praise.

Bertr. Yet Happiness
Is the first Fame : Virtue without Success
Is a fair Picture shewn by an ill light :
But lucky Men are Favorites of Heaven,
And whom should Kings esteem above Heaven's Darlings ?
The Praises of a young and beauteous Queen
Shall crown your glorious Acts.

Pedro, to Alphonso. There sprung the Mine.

Torr. The Queen ! That were a Happiness too great !
Nam'd you the Queen, My Lord ?

Bertr. Yes : You have seen her, and you must confess
A Praise, a Smile, a Look from her is worth

The Double Discovery.

The shouts of thousand Amphitheatres :
She, she shall praise you ; for I can oblige her :
To morrow will deliver all her Charms
Into my Arms ; and make her mine for ever.
Why stand you mute ?

Torr. Alas ! I cannot speak.

Bertr. Not speak, My Lord ! How were your thoughts employ'd ?

Torr. Nor can I think ; or I am lost in thought.

Bertr. Thought of the Queen, perhaps ?

Torr. Why, if it were,
Heav'n may be thought on, though too high to climb.

Bertr. O, now I find where your Ambition drives :
You ought not think of her.

Torr. So I say too ;
I ought not : Madmen ought not to be mad ;
But, who can help their frenzy ?

Bertr. Fond young Man !
The Wings of your Ambition must be clipt :
Your shame-fac'd Virtue shunn'd the People's Praise,
And Senates Honours ; But 'tis well we know
What price you hold your self at : you have fought
With some Success, and that has seal'd your Pardon.

Torr. Pardon from thee ! O give me Patience Heav'n !
Thrice vanquish'd Bertram ; if thou dar'st, look out
Upon yon slaughter'd Host, that Field of Blood :
There seal my Pardon, where thy Fame was lost.

Pedro. He's ruin'd, past redemption !

Alph. to Torr. Learn respect
To the first Prince o' th' Blood.

Bertr. O, let him rave !
I'll not contend with Madmen.

Torr. I have done :
I know 'twere Madness to declare this Truth :
And yet 'twere Baseness to deny my Love.
'Tis true, my hopes are vanishing as clouds ;
Lighter than Children's bubbles blown by winds ;
My merit's but the rash results of chance :
My birth unequal : all the Stars against me :
Pow'r, promise, choice ; the living and the dead.
Mankind my foes ; and only love to friend :
But such a love, kept at such awfull distance,
As, what it loudly dares to tell, a Rival
Shall fear to whisper there : Queens may be lov'd.
And so may Gods ; else, why are Altars rais'd ?
Why shines the Sun, but that he may be view'd ?
But, Oh ! when he's too bright, if then we gaze,
'Tis but to weep ; and close our eyes in darkness.

[Exit Torrismond.

Bertr.

The Spanish Fryar ; or,

Bertr. 'Tis well : the Goddess shall be told, she shall,
Of her new Worshipper. [Exit Bertran.]

Pedro. So, here's fine work !
He has supply'd his only Foe with Arms
For his destruction. Old Penelope's tale
Inverted : h' has unravell'd all by day
That he has done by night. ——— What, Planet-struck !

Alph. I wish I were ; to be past sence of this !

Pedro. Wou'd I had but a Lease of life so long
As till my Flesh and Blood rebell'd this way
Against our Sovereign Lady : mad for a Queen ?
With a Globe in one hand, and a Sceptre in t' other ?
A very pretty Mopper !

Alph. Then to declare his Madness to his Rival !
His Father absent on an Embassy :
Himself a Stranger almost ; wholly friendless !
A Torrent, rowling down a Precipice,
Is easier to be stopt, than is his Ruine.

Pedro. 'Tis fruitless to complain : haste to the Court :
Improve your Interest, for Pardon from the Queen.

Alph. Weak remedies ;
But all must be attempted.

[Exit Alphonso.]

Enter Lorenzo.

Lorenzo. Well, I am the most unlucky Rogue ! I have been ranging over half the Town ; but have sprung no Game. Our Women are worse Infidels than the Moors : I told 'em I was one of their Knight-errants, that deliver'd them from ravishment : and I think in my conscience that's their Quarrel to me.

Pedro. Is this a time for fooling ? Your Cousin is run honourably mad in love with her Majesty : He is split upon a Rock ; and you, who are in chase of Har-lots, are sinking in the main Ocean, I think the Devil's in the Family. [Exit Pedro.]

[Lorenzo solus.]

Lorenzo. My Cousin ruin'd, says he ! hum ! not that I with my Kinsman's ruine ;
That were unchristian : but if the General's ruin'd, I am Heir ; there's comfort for a Christian. Money I have, I thank the honest Moors for't ; but I want a Mistress. I am willing to be leud ; but the Tempter is wanting on his part.

Enter Elvira veil'd.

Elvira. Stranger ! Cavalier ——— will you not hear me ? you Moor-killer, you
Matador. ———

Lorenzo. Meaning me, Madam ?

Elvira. Face about, Man ; you a Souldier, and afraid of the Enemy !

Lorenzo. I must confess, I did not expect to have been charg'd first : I see Souls will not be lost, for want of diligence, in this Devil's reign : ——— Aside ———

To her. Now, Madam Cynthia behind a cloud ; your will and pleasure with me ?

Elvira. You have the appearance of a Cavalier ; and if you are as deserving as you seem, perhaps you may not repent of your Adventure. If a Lady like you well enough to hold discourse with you at first sight ; you are Gentleman enough.

I hope,

The Double Discovery.

I hope, to help her out with an Apology : and to lay the blame on Stars, or Destiny ; or what you please, to excuse the frailty of a Woman.

Lorenzo. O, I love an easie Woman : there's such a-do to crack a thick shell'd Mistress : we break our Teeth ; and find no Kernel. 'Tis generous in you, to take pity on a Stranger, and not to suffer him to fall into ill hands at his first arrival.

Elvira. You may have a better opinion of me than I deserve ; you have not seen me yet ; and therefore I am confident you are heart-whole.

Lorenzo. Not absolutely slain, I must confess ; but I am drawing on apace : you have a dangerous Tongue in your head, I can tell you that ; and if your Eyes prove of as killing metal, there's but one way with me : Let me see you, for the safeguard of my Honour : 'tis but decent the Cannon should be drawn down upon me, before I yield.

Elvira. What a terrible Similitude have you made, Colonel ? to shew that you are inclining to the Wars : I could answer you with another in my Profession : Suppose you were in want of Money ; would you not be glad to take a Sum upon content in a seal'd bag, without peeping ? — but however ; I will not stand with you for a sample.

[Lifts up her Veil.]

Lorenzo. What Eyes were there ! how keen their Glances ! you do well to keep 'em veil'd : they are too sharp to be trusted out o' th' Scabbard.

Elvira. Perhaps now you may accuse my forwardness ; but this day of Jubilee is the only time of freedom I have had : and there is nothing so extravagant as a Prisoner, when he gets loose a little, and is immediatly to return into his Fetters.

Lorenzo. To confess freely to you, Madam, I was never in love with less than your whole Sex before : but now I have seen you, I am in the direct road of languishing and sighing : and, if Love goes on as it begins, for ought I know, by to-morrow morning you may hear of me in Rhyme and Sonnet. I tell you truly, I do not like these Symptoms in my self : perhaps I may go shufflingly at first ; for I was never before walk'd in Trammels ; yet I shall drudge and moil at Constancy, till I have worn off the hitching in my pace.

Elvira. Oh, Sir, there are Arts to reclaim the wildest Men, as there are to make Spaniels fetch and carry : chide 'em often, and feed 'em seldom : now I know your temper, you may thank your self if you are kept to hard meat ; — you are in for years if you make love to me.

Lorenzo. I hate a formal obligation with an Anno Domini at end on't : there may be an evil meaning in the word Years, call'd Matrimony.

Elvira. I can easily rid you of that Fear : I wish I could rid my self as easily of the bondage.

Lorenzo. Then you are married ?

Elvira. If a Covetous, and a Jealous, and an Old Man be a Husband.

Lorenzo. Three as good qualities for my purpose as I could wish : now love be prais'd.

Enter Elvira's Duenna, and whispers to her.

Elvira. (Aside.) If I get not home before my Husband, I shall be ruin'd. [—to him. I dare not stay to tell you where—farewell—cou'd I once more—] [Exit Elvira.]

Lorenzo. This is unconscionable dealing ; to be made a Slave, and not know whose Livery I wear : —Who have we yonder ? (Enter Gomez.) By that shambling in his walk, it should be my rich old Banker, Gomez, whom I knew at Barcelona : As I live 'tis he —

To

The Spanish Fryar ; or,

To Gomez. What, Old Mammon here?

Gom. How ! Young Beelzebub !

Lorenzo. What Devil has set his Claws in thy Hanches, and brought thee hither to Saragossa? Sure he meant a farther Journey with thee.

Gom. I always remove before the Enemy : When the Moors are ready to besiege one Town, I shift quarters to the next : I keep as far from the Infidels as I can.

Lorenzo. That's but a hair's breadth at farthest.

Gom. Well, You have got a famous Victory ; all true Subjects are overjoy'd at it, there are Bonfires decreed : and if the times had not been hard, my Billet should have burnt too.

Lorenzo. I dare say for thee, thou hast such a respect for a single Billet, thou would'st almost have thrown on thy self to save it : thou art for saving every thing but thy Soul.

Gom. Well, well, You'll not believe me generous 'till I carry you to the Tavern, and crack half a Pint with you at my own charges.

Lorenzo. No ; I'll keep thee from hanging thy self for such an extravagance : and, instead of it, thou shalt do me a mere verbal courtesie : I have just now seen a most incomparable young Lady.

Gom. Whereabouts did you see this most incomparable young Lady ? My mind misgives me plaguily. ——— (Aside.)

Lorenzo. Here, Man ; just before this Corner-house : Pray Heaven it prove no Bawdy-house ?

Gom. (Aside.) Pray Heaven he does not make it one.

Lorenzo. What dost thou mutter to thy self? Hast thou any thing to say against the Honesty of that house?

Gom. Not I, Colonel, the Walls are very honest Stone, and the Timber very honest Wood, for ought I know. But, for the Woman, I cannot say, till I know her better : describe her Person ; and, if she live in this quarter, I may give you tidings of her.

Lorenzo. She's of a middle Stature, dark colour'd Hair, the most bewitching Leer with her Eyes, the most roguish Cast ; her Cheeks are dimpled when she smiles ; and her Smiles would tempt an Hermit.

Gom. (Aside) I am dead, I am buried, I am damn'd. — Go on — Colonel — have you no other Marks of her ?

Lorenzo. Thou hast all her Marks ; but that she has an Husband ; a jealous, covetous, old Hunk : speak ; canst thou tell me News of her ?

Gom. Yes ; this News, Colonel ; that you have seen your last of her.

Lor. If thou help'st me not to the knowledge of her, thou art a circumcised Jew.

Gom. Circumcise me no more than I circumcise you, Colonel Hernando : once more you have seen your last of her.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) I am glad he knows me only by that Name of Hernando, by which I went at Barcelona : now he can tell no tales of me to my Father.

To him. Come, thou wert ever good-natur'd, when thou couldst get by't : — Look here, Rogue, 'tis of the right damning colour : — thou art not Proof against Gold, sure ! — do not I know thee, for a covetous. —

Gom. Jealous, old Huncks : those were the Marks of your Mistress's Husband, as I remember, Colonel.

Lorenzo.

The Double Discovery.

11

Lorenzo. Oh, the Devil! What a Rogue in understanding was I, not to find him out sooner! (Aside.)

Gom. Do, do, Look fillily, good Colonel: 'tis a decent Melancholy after an absolute Defeat.

Lorenzo. Faith, not for that, dear Gomez? ——— but,

Gom. But ——— no Pumping, my dear, Colonel.

Lorenzo. Hang Pumping; I was—thinking a little upon a point of Gratitude: we two have been long Acquaintance; I know thy Merits, and can make some Interest: go to; thou wert born to Authority: I'll make thee Alcaide Mayor of Saragossa.

Gom. Satisfie your self; you shall not make me what you think, Colonel.

Lorenzo. Faith, but I will; thou hast the Face of a Magistrate already.

Gom. And you would provide me with a Magistrate's Head to my Magistrates Face; I thank you, Colonel.

Lorenzo. Come, thou art so suspicious upon an idle Story—that Woman I saw, I mean that little, crooked, ugly Woman; for t'other was a Lye;—is no more thy Wife: ——— As I'll go home with thee, and satisfie thee immediatly, my dear Friend.

Gom. I shall not put you to that trouble: no not so much as a single Visit: not so much as an Embassy by a civil, old Woman: nor a Serenade of Twinkledum, Twinkledum, under my Windows: Nay, I will advise you out of my tenderness to your Person, that you walk not near yon Corner-house by night; for, to my certain knowledge, there are Blunderbusses planted in every loophole, that go off constantly of their own accord, at the squeaking of a Fiddle, and the thrumming of a Ghittar.

Lorenzo. Art thou so obstinate? Then I denounce open War against thee: I'll demolish thy Citadel by force: or, at least, I'll bring my whole Regiment upon thee: my thousand red Locusts that shall devour thee in Free-quarter. ——— Farewell wrought Night-cap.

Gom. Farewell Buff! Free-quarter for a Regiment of Red-coat Locusts? I hope to see 'em all in the Red-sea first! ——— But oh, this Jezabel of mine! I'll get a Physician that shall prescribe her an ounce of Camphire every morning for her Breakfast, to abate Incontinency: she shall never peep abroad, no, not to Church for Confession; and for never going, she shall be condemned for a Heretick: she shall have stripes by Troy weight; and Sustenance by Drachms and Scruples: Nay, I'll have a Fasting Almanack printed on purpose for her use; in which,

No Carnival nor Christmases shall appear;

But Lents and Ember-weeks shall fill the Year.

[Exit Gomez.]

ACT II.

SCENE. The Queen's Anti-Chamber.

Alphonso, Pedro.

Alph. WHEN saw you my Lorenzo?

Pedro. I had a glimpse of him; but he shot by me

The Spanish Fryar ; or,

Like a young Hound upon a burning scent:
He's gone a Harlot-hunting.

Alph. His Foreign breeding might have taught him better.

Pedro. 'Tis that has taught him this.

What learn our Youth abroad ; but to refine
The homely Vices of their native Land ?
Give me an honest homespun Country Clown
Of our own growth ; his dulness is but plain :
But their's embroider'd ; they are sent out Fools,
And come back Fopps.

Alph. You know what reasons urg'd me ;
But now I have accomplish'd my Designs,
I should be glad he knew 'em : ——— his wild Riots
Disturb my Soul ; but they wou'd sit more close,
Did not the threatn'd down-fall of our house,
In Torrismond, o'erwhelm my private Ills.

Enter Bertran attended ; and whispering with a Courier, aside.

Bertr. I wou'd not have her think he dar'd to love her ;
If he presume to own it, she's so proud
He tempts his certain ruine.

Alph. to Ped. Mark how disdainfully he throws his Eyes on us.
Our old imprison'd King wore no such Looks.

Pedro. O, wou'd the General shake off his Dotage to th' usurping Queen,
And re-inthroned Good, Venerable Sancho ;
I'll undertake, shou'd Bertran found his Trumpets,
And Torrismond but whistle through his Fingers,
He draws his Army off.

Alph. I told him so :
But had an Answer louder than a Storm.

Pedro. Now Plague and Pox on his Smock-loyalty !
I hate to see a brave bold Fellow fotted,
Made sour and senseless ; turn'd to Whey by Love :
A driveling Hero ; fit for a Romance.
O, here he comes ; what will their greeting be !

Enter Torrismond attended. Bertran and he meet and salute.

Bertr. Make way, my Lords, and let the Pageant pass.

Torr. I make my way where-e'er I see my Foe :
But you, my Lord, are good at a Retreat :
I have no Moors behind me.

Bertr. Death and Hell !

Dare to speak thus when you come out again ?

Torr. Dare to provoke me thus, insulting Man ?

Enter Teresa.

Ter. My Lords, You are too loud so near the Queen :
You, Torrismond, have much offended her :
'Tis her Command you instantly appear,
To answer your demeanour to the Prince.

{ Exit Teresa ; Bertran with his company follow her.

Torr.

13

Torr. O Pedro, O Alphonso, pity me !

A Grove of Pikes

Whose polish'd Steel from far severely shines,
Are not so dreadfull as this beauteous Queen.

Alph. Call up your Courage timely to your aid :

And, like a Lion press'd upon the Toiles,
Leap on your Hunters ; Speak your Actions boldly :
There is a time when modest Vertue is Allow'd to praise it self.

Pedro. Heart, you were hot enough ; too hot, but now ;
Your Fury then boil'd upward to a Fome :
But since this Message came, you sink and settle ;
As if cold water had been pour'd upon you.

Torr. Alas, thou know'st not what it is to love ;
When we behold an Angel, not to fear,
Is to be impudent : ——— no, I'm resolv'd,
Like a led Victim, to my Death I'll go ;
And, dying, blest the hand that gave the blow.

[Exeunt.]

The SCENE draws, and shews the Queen sitting in State, Bertran standing next her : then Teresa, &c.

She rises, and comes to the Front.

Qu. Leonora to Bertr. I blame not you, my Lord, my Father's will,
Your own Deserts, and all my People's Voice,
Have plac'd you in the view of Sovereign Pow'r.
But I wou'd learn the cause, why Torrismond,
Within my Palace Walls, within my Hearing,
Almost within my Sight, affronts a Prince
Who shortly shall command him.

Bertr. He thinks you owe him more than you can pay ;
And looks as he were Lord of humane kind.

Enter Torrismond, Alphonso, Pedro: Torrismond bows low : then looks earnestly on the Queen, and keeps at distance.

Ter. Madam, The General. ———

Qu. Let me view him well.

My Father sent him early to the Frontiers ;
I have not often seen him ; if I did,
He pass'd unmark'd by my unheeding Eyes.
But where's the Fierceness, the Disdainful Pride ;
The Haughty Port, the Fiery Arrogance ?
By all these Marks, this is not sure the Man.

Bertr. Yet this is he who fill'd your Court with Tumult,
Whose Fierce Demeanour, and whose Insolence
The Patience of a God cou'd not support.

Qu. Name his Offence, my Lord, and he shall have Immediate punishment.

Bertr.

Bertr. 'Tis of so high a nature, should I speak it,
That my Presumption then wou'd equal his.

Qu. Some one among you speak.

Pedro. (Aside.) Now my Tongue itches.

Qu. All dumb! on your Allegiance, Torrismond,
By all your hopes, I do command you, speak.

Torr. (Kneeling.) O seek not to convince me of a Crime
Which I can ne'er repent, nor can you pardon.
Or, if you needs will know it, think, oh think,
That he, who thus commanded, dares to speak,
Unless commanded, wou'd have dy'd in silence.
But you adjur'd me, Madam, by my hopes!
Hopes I have none, for I am all Despair:
Friends I have none; for Friendship follows Favour:
Desert I've none; for what I did, was Duty:
Oh, that it were! that it were Duty all!

Qu. Why do you pause? proceed.

Torr. As one condemn'd to leap a Precipice,
Who sees before his Eyes the Depth below,
Stops short, and looks about, for some-kind Shrub
To break his dreadfull fall ——— so I; ———
But whither am I going; if to Death,
He looks so lovely sweet in Beauteous Pomp,
He draws me to his Dart. ——— I dare no more.

Bertr. He's mad beyond the Cure of Hellebore.
Whips, Darknes, Dungeons, for this Insolence. ———

Torr. Mad as I am, yet I know when to bear. ———

Qu. You're both too bold. You, Torrismond, withdraw:
I'll teach you all what's owing to your Queen.
For you, My Lord, ———

The Priest to morrow was to join our hands;
I'll try if I can live a day without you.
So, both of you depart; and live in Peace.

Alph. Who knows which way she points!
Doubling and turning, like an hunted Hare.
Find out the meaning of her mind who can.

Pedro. Who ever found a Woman's! backward and forward,
The whole Sex in every word. In my Conscience when she was getting, her Mother was thinking of a Riddle. [Exeunt all, but the Queen and Teresa.]

Qu. Haste, my Teresa, haste; and call him back.

Ter. Whom, Madam? (Queen.) Him. (Ter.) Prince Bertran? (Qu.) Torrismond.

There is no other He.

Ter. (Aside.) A rising Sun;
Or I am much deceiv'd.

Qu. A change so swift, what heart did ever feel!
It rush'd upon me, like a mighty Stream,

[Exit Teresa.]

The Double Discovery.

15

And bore me in a moment far from Shore.
I've lov'd away my self: in one short hour
Already am I gone an Age of Passion.
Was it his Youth, his Valour, or Success?
These might perhaps be found in other Men.
'Twas that respect; that awfull homage pay'd me;
That fearfull Love which trembled in his Eyes;
And, with a silent Earthquake, shook his Soul.
But, when he spoke, what tender words he said!
So softly, that, like flakes of feather'd Snow,
They melted as they fell. —

Enter Teresa, with Torrismond.

Ter. He waits your pleasure.

Qu. 'Tis well; retire ——— Oh Heav'ns, that I must speak
So distant from my heart ——— (Aside.)

To Torr. How now! What boldness brings you back again?

Torr. I heard 'twas your Command.

Qu. A fond mistake,

To credit so unlikely a Command,
And you return full of the same Presumption
To affront me with your Love?

Torr. If 'tis Presumption for a Wretch condemn'd
To throw himself beneath his Judges feet:
A Boldness, more than this, I never knew;
Or, if I did, 'twas only to your Foes.

Qu. You would insinuate your past Services;
And those, I grant, were great: but you confess
A Fault committed since, that cancels all.

Torr. And who cou'd dare to disavow his Crime,
When that, for which he is accus'd and seiz'd,
He bears about him still! my Eyes confess it.
My very action speaks my heart aloud.
But, oh, the Madness of my high attempt
Speaks louder yet! and all together cry,
I love and I despair.

Qu. Have you not heard,
My Father, with his dying voice bequeath'd
My Crown and me to Bertran? And dare you,
A private Man, presume to love a Queen?

Torr. That, that's the Wound, I see you set so high,
As no Desert, or Services, can reach.
Good Heav'ns, why gave you me a Monarch's Soul,
And crusted it with base Plebeian Clay!
Why gave you me Desires of such extent,
And such a Span to grasp 'em? Sure my lot
By some o'er-hasty Angel was misplac'd.

In

In Fate's Eternal Volume! ——— But I rave,
And, like a giddy Bird, in dead of night,
Fly round the Fire that scorches me to death:

Qu. Yet, Torrismond, you've not so ill deserv'd,
But I may give you Counsel for your Cure.

Torr. I cannot, nay, I wish not to be cur'd.

Qu. (Aside.) Nor I, Heav'n knows!

Torr. There is a Pleasure sure

In being Mad, which none but Madmen know!

Let me indulge it: let me gaze for ever!

And, since you are too great to be belov'd,

Be greater, greater yet; and be ador'd.

Qu. These are the words which I must only hear
From Bertran's mouth; they shou'd displease from you;
I say, they shou'd: But Women are so vain,
To like the Love, though they despise the Lover.
Yet, that I may not send you from my sight
In absolute despair ——— I pity you.

Torr. Am I then pity'd! I have liv'd enough!
Death, take me in this moment of my Joy;
But when my Soul is plung'd in long oblivion,
Spare this one Thought: let me remember Pity;
And so deceiv'd, think all my life was blest.

Qu. What, if I add a little to my Alms.
If that wou'd help, I cou'd cast in a Tear
To your Misfortunes. ———

Torr. A Tear! You have o'er-bid all my past Sufferings,
And all my future too!

Qu. Were I no Queen ———
Or you of Royal Blood ———

Torr. What have I lost by my Fore-fathers fault?
Why was not I the Twenty'th by descent
From a long restive race of droning Kings?
Love! What a poor omnipotence hast thou,
When Gold and Titles buy thee?

Qu. (sighs.) Oh, my torture! ———

Torr. Might I presume, but, oh, I dare not hope
That Sigh was added to your Alms for me!

Qu. I give you leave to guess; and not forbid you
To make the best construction for your love.
Be secret and discreet; these Fayery favours

Are lost when not conceal'd; ——— provoke not Bertran ———
Retire; I must no more but this, ——— Hope, Torrismond. ———

[Exit Queen.]

Torr. She bids me hope; oh Heav'ns; she pities me!
And pity still fore-runs approaching love;
As Lightning does the Thunder! Tune your Harps
Ye Angels to that sound; and thou, my Heart,

The Double Discovery.

Make room to entertain thy flowing Joy.
Hence all my Grievs, and every anxious Care :
One word, and one kind Glance, can cure Despair.

[Exit Terrismond.]

A Table and Wine set out.

Enter Lorenzo.

Lorenzo. This may hit, 'tis more than barely possible : for Fryars have free admittance into every house. This Jacobin, whom I have sent to, is her Confessor ; and who can suspect a Man of such Reverence for a Pimp ? The Church, they say, is an indulgent Mother. I'll try for once how indulgent she will be to a carnal Son of hers. I'll bribe him high : for commonly none love Money better than they who have made a Vow of Poverty.

Enter Servant.

Serv. There's a huge fat religious Gentleman coming up, Sir, he says he's but a Fryar, but he's big enough to be a Pope ; his Gills are as rosie as a Turkey-Cock ; his great Belly walks in state before him like an Harbinger ; and his gouty Legs come limping after it : Never was such a Tun of Devotion seen.

Lorenzo. Bring him in, and vanish.

[Exit Servant.]

Enter Father Dominic.

Lorenzo. Welcome, Father.

Dom. Peace be here : I thought I had been sent for to a dying Man ; to have fitted him for another World.

Lorenzo. No, Faith, Father, I was never for taking such long Journeys. Repose your self, I beseech you, Sir, if those spindle Legs of yours will carry you to the next Chair.

Dom. I am old, I am infirm, I must confess, with Fasting.

Lorenzo. 'Tis a sign by your wan Complexion, and your thin Jouls, Father. Come——to our better Acquaintance : ——here's a Sovereign Remedy for old Age and Sorrow.

[Drinks.]

Dom. The Looks of it are indeed alluring : I'll do you reason.

[Drinks.]

Lorenzo. Is it to your Palate, Father ?

Dom. Second thoughts, they say, are best : I'll consider of it once again. [Drinks.]
It has a most delicious Flavour with it.

Gad forgive me, I have forgotten to drink your health, Son, I am not us'd to be so unmannerly.

[Drinks again.]

Lorenzo. No, I'll be sworn by what I see of you, you are not : —— To the bottom. —— I warrant him a true Church-man. —— Now, Father, to our business, 'tis agreeable to your Calling : I intend to do an act of Charity.

Dom. And I love to hear of Charity ; 'tis a comfortable subject.

Lorenzo. Being in the late Battel, in great hazard of my Life, I recommended my Person to good St. Dominic.

Dom. You could not have pitch'd upon a better : he's a sure Card : I never knew him fail his Votaries.

Lorenzo. Troth, I e'en made bold to strike up a bargain with him, that if I scap'd with Life and Plunder, I wou'd present some Brother of his Order with part of the Booty taken from the Infidels, to be employ'd in charitable uses.

Dom. There you hit him : St. Dominic loves Charity exceedingly : that Argument never fails with him.

Lorenzo. The Spoils were mighty ; and I scorn to wrong him of a Farthing. To make short my Story ; I enquir'd among the Jacobins for an Almoner, and the general Fame has pointed out your Reverence as the Worthiest Man : — here are Fifty good Pieces in this Purse.

Dom. How, Fifty Pieces ? 'tis too much, too much in Conscience.

Lorenzo. Here ; take 'em Father.

Dom. No, in troth, I dare not : do not tempt me to break my Vow of Poverty.

Lorenzo. If you are modest, I must force you : for I am strongest.

Dom. Nay, if you compell me, there's no contending ; but will you set your strength against a decrepid, poor, old Man ?

[Takes the Purse.]

As I said, 'tis too great a Bounty ; but St. Dominic shall owe you another Scape : I'll put him in mind of you.

Lorenzo. If you please, Father, we will not trouble him till the next Battel. But you may do me a greater kindness, by conveying my Prayers to a Female Saint.

Dom. A Female Saint ! good now, good now, how your Devotions jump with mine ! I always lov'd the Female Saints.

Lorenzo. I mean a Female mortal-married-woman Saint : Look upon the Superscription of this Note ; you know Don Gomez his Wife. [Gives him a Letter.]

Dom. Who, Donna Elvira ? I think I have some reason : I am her Ghostly Father.

Lorenzo. I have some business of Importance with her, which I have communicated in this Paper ; but her Husband is so horribly given to be jealous. —

Dom. Ho, jealous ; he's the very Quintessence of Jealousie ; he keeps no Male Creature in his house : and from abroad he lets no Man come near her.

Lorenzo. Excepting you, Father.

Dom. Me, I grant you : I am her Director and her Guide in spiritual Affairs. But he has his humours with me too : for t'other day, he call'd me False Apostle.

Lorenzo. Did he so ? that reflects upon you all : on my word, Father, that touches your Copy-hold. If you wou'd do a meritorious Action, you might revenge the Churches Quarrel. — My Letter, Father —

Dom. Well, so far as a Letter, I will take upon me : for what can I refuse to a Man so charitably given ?

Lorenzo. If you bring an Answer back, that Purse in your hand has a twin Brother, as like him as ever he can look : there are Fifty Pieces lie dormant in it, for more Charities.

Dom. That must not be : not a Farthing more upon my Priest-hood. — But what may be the purport and meaning of this Letter ; that I confess a little troubles me.

Lorenzo. No harm, I warrant you.

Dom. Well, you are a charitable Man ; and I'll take your word : my comfort is, I know not the Contents, and so far I am blameless. But an Answer you shall have : though not for the sake of your Fifty Pieces more : I have sworn not to take them : they shall not be altogether Fifty : — your Mistress, — forgive me that I should call her your Mistress, I meant Elvira, she lives but at next door ;

I'll

The Double Discovery.

I'll visit her immediately : but not a word more of the Nine and forty Pieces. —

Lorenzo. Nay, I'll wait on you down Stairs. — Fifty Pounds for the postage of a Letter ! to send by the Church is certainly the dearest road in Christendom.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE, A Chamber.

Gomez, Elvira.

Gom. Henceforth I banish Flesh and Wine : I'll have none stirring within these Walls these twelve Months.

Elvira. I care not ; the sooner I am starv'd the sooner I am rid of Wedlock. I shall learn the knack to fast a-days ; you have us'd me to fasting nights already.

Gom. How the Gipsy answers me ! Oh, 'tis a most notorious Hilding !

Elvira. (Crying.) But was ever poor innocent Creature so hardly dealt with, for a little harmless Chat ?

Gom. Oh, the Impudence of this wicked Sex ! Lascivious Dialogues are innocent with you !

Elvira. Was it such a Crime to enquire how the Battel pass'd ?

Gom. But that was not the business, Gentlewoman ; you were not asking News of a Battel past ; you were engaging for a Skirmish that was to come.

Elvira. An honest Woman wou'd be glad to hear, that her Honour was safe, and her Enemies were slain.

Gom. (In her tone.) And to ask if he were wounded in your defence ; and, in case he were, to offer your self to be his Chirurgeon : — then, you did not describe your Husband to him, for a covetous, jealous, rich old Huncks.

Elvira. No, I need not ; he describes himself sufficiently : but in what Dream did I do this ?

Gom. You walk'd in your Sleep, with your Eyes broad open, at noon of day ; and dreamt you were talking to the foresaid purpose with one Colonel Hernando. —

Elvira. Who, dear Husband, who ?

Gom. What the Devil have I said ! You wou'd have farther Information, wou'd you ?

Elvira. No, but, my dear little old Man, tell me now ; that I may avoid him for your sake.

Gom. Get you up into your Chamber, Cockatrice ; and there immure your self : be confin'd, I say, during our Royal Pleasure : But, first, down on your marrow-bones, upon your Allegiance ; and make an Acknowledgment of your Offences ; for I will have ample Satisfaction. [Pulls her down.]

Elvira. I have done you no Injury, and therefore I'll make you no Submission : But I'll complain to my Ghostly Father.

Gom. Ay ; There's your Remedy : When you receive condign Punishment, you run with open Mouth to your Confessour : that parcel of holy Guts and Garbidge ; he must chuckle you and moan you : but I'll rid my hands of his Ghostly Authority one day, and make him know he's the Son of a — } Enter Dom.
(sees him.) So ; — no sooner conjure, but the Devil's in the Circle. — } mimic.

Dom. Son of a what, Don Gomez ?

Gom. Why, a Son of a Church, I hope there's no harm in that, Father.

Dom. I will lay up your words for you till time shall serve: and to morrow I enjoin you to fast for Pennace.

Gom. (Aside.) There's no harm in that; he shall fast too: Fasting saves Money.

Dom. to Elvira. What was the reason that I found you upon your Knees, in that unseemly posture?

Gom. (Aside.) O horrible! to find a Woman upon her Knees, he says, is an unseemly posture: there's a Priest for you.

Elvira. to Dom. I wish, Father, you wou'd give me an opportunity of entertaining you in private: I have somewhat upon my Spirits that presses me exceedingly.

Dom. (Aside.) This goes well: Gomez, stand you at distance — farther yet, — stand out of ear shot — I have somewhat to say to your Wife in private.

Gom. (Aside.) Was ever Man thus Priest-ridden? wou'd the Steeple of his Church were in his Belly: I am sure there's room for it.

Elvira. I am asham'd to acknowledge my Infirmities; but you have been always an indulgent Father; and therefore I will venture, to — and yet I dare not. —

Dom. Nay, if you are bashfull; — if you keep your wound from the knowledge of your Surgeon; —

Elvira. You know my Husband is a Man in years; but he's my Husband; and therefore I shall be silent: but his Humours are more intolerable than his Age: he is grown so froward, so covetous, and so jealous, that he has turn'd my heart quite from him; and, if I durst confess it, has forc'd me to cast my Affections on another Man.

Dom. Good: — hold, hold; I meant abominable: — pray Heaven this be my Colonel. [Aside.]

Elvira. I have seen this Man, Father; and have encourag'd his Addresses: he's a young Gentleman, a Soldier of a most winning Carriage; and what his Courtship may produce at last I know not; but I am afraid of my own frailty.

Dom. (Aside.) 'Tis he for certain: — she has sav'd the Credit of my Function, by speaking first; now must I take Gravity upon me.

Gom. (Aside.) This whispering bodes me no good for certain; but he has me so plaguily under the lash, that I dare not interrupt him.

Dom. Daughter, Daughter, do you remember your matrimonial Vow?

Elvira. Yes, to my sorrow, Father, I do remember it: a miserable Woman it has made me; but you know, Father, a Marriage-vow is but a thing of course, which all Women take when they wou'd get a Husband.

Dom. A Vow is a very solemn thing: and 'tis good to keep it: — but, notwithstanding, it may be broken upon some occasions. — Have you striven with all your might against this frailty?

Elvira. Yes, I have striven; but I found it was against the Stream. Love, you know, Father, is a great Vow-maker; but he's a greater Vow-breaker.

Dom. 'Tis your Duty to strive always; but notwithstanding, when we have done our utmost, it extenuates the Sin.

Gom. I can hold no longer. — Now, Gentlewoman, you are confessing your Enormities; I know it by that hypocritical, down-cast Look: enjoin her to sit bare upon a Bed of Nettles, Father; you can do no less in Conscience.

Dom. Hold your peace; are you growing malapert? will you force me to make make use of my Authority? your Wife's a well-dispos'd and a vertuous Lady ; I say it, In verbo Sacerdotis.

Elvira. I know not what to do, Father ; I find my self in a most desperate Condition ; and so is the Colonel for Love of me.

Dom. The Colonel, say you ! I wish it be not the same young Gentleman I know : 'Tis a gallant young Man, I must confess, worthy of any Lady's love in Christendom ; in a lawfull way I mean ; of such a charming behaviour, so bewitching to a Woman's eye ; and farthermore, so charitably given ; by all good tokens, this must be my Colonel Hernando.

Elvira. Ay, and my Colonel too, Father : I am over-joy'd ; and are you then acquainted with him ?

Dom. Acquainted with him ! why, he haunts me up and down : and, I am afraid it is for love of you : for he press'd a Letter upon me, within this hour, to deliver to you : I confess I receiv'd it, lest he should send it by some other ; but with full resolution never to put it into your hands.

Elvira. Oh, dear Father, let me have it, or I shall dye.

Gom. (Whispering still.) A Pox of your close Committee ! I'll listen I am resolv'd : (steals nearer.)

Dom. Nay, If you are obstinately bent to see it, — use your discretion, but for my part, I wash my hands on't ; — what make you listning there ? get farther off ; I preach not to thee, thou wicked Eves-dropper.

Elvira. I'll kneel down, Father, as if I were taking Absolution, if you'll but please to stand before me.

Dom. At your peril be it then. I have told you the ill Consequences ; & liberavi animam meam. — Your Reputation is in danger, to say nothing of your Soul. Notwithstanding, when the spiritual means have been apply'd, and fails, in that case the carnal may be us'd. — You are a tender Child, you are ; and must not be put into Despair : your Heart is as soft and melting as your Hand.

(He strokes her face ; takes her by the hand ; and gives the Letter.)

Gom. Hold, hold, Father ; you go beyond your Commission : Palming is always held foul play amongst Gamesters.

Dom. Thus good Intentions are misconstrued by wicked Men : you will never be warn'd till you are excommunicate.

Gom. (Aside.) Ah, Devil on him ; there's his hold ! If there were no more in Excommunication than the Church's Censure, a Wise Man wou'd lick his Conscience whole with a wet Finger : but if I am excommunicate, I am out-law'd ; and then there's no calling in my Money.

Elvira. (Rising.) I have read the Note, Father, and will send him an Answer immediately ; for I know his Lodgings by his Letter.

Dom. I understand it not, for my part ; but I wish your Intentions be honest. Remember, that Adultery, though it be a silent Sin, yet it is a crying Sin also. Nevertheless, if you believe absolutely he will die, unless you pity him ; to save a Man's Life is a point of Charity ; and actions of Charity do alleviate, as I may say, and take off from the Mortality of the Sin. Farewell, Daughter. — Gomez, cherish your vertuous Wife ; and thereupon I give you my Benediction : (Going.)

Gom. Stay ; I'll conduct you to the door, — that I may be sure you steal nothing.

nothing by the way. — Fryars wear not their long Sleeves for nothing. — Oh, 'tis a Judas Iscariot. [Exit, after the Fryar.

Elvira. This Fryar is a comfortable Man ! He will understand nothing of the Business ; and yet does it all.

*Pray, Wives and Virgins, at your time of need,
For a True Guide, of my Good Father's breed.*

[Exit Elvira.

ACT III.

SCENE, The Street.

Lorenzo, in Fryar's Habit, meeting Dominic.

Lorenzo. Father Dominic, Father Dominic ; Why in such hast Man ?
Dom. It shou'd seem a Brother of our Order.

Lorenzo. No, Faith, I am only your Brother in Iniquity : my holiness, like yours, is mere out-side.

Dom. What ! my noble Colonel in Metamorphosis ! On what occasion are you transform'd ?

Lorenzo. Love, Almighty Love ; that which turn'd Jupiter into a Town-bull, has transform'd me into a Fryar : I have had a Letter from Elvira, in answer to that I sent by you.

Dom. You see I have deliver'd my Message faithfully : I am a Fryar of Honour where I am engag'd.

Lorenzo. O, I understand your Hint : the other Fifty pieces are ready to be condemn'd to Charity.

Dom. But this Habit, Son, this Habit !

Lorenzo. 'Tis a Habit that in all Ages has been friendly to Fornication : You have begun the Design in this Cloathing, and I'll try to accomplish it. The Husband is absent : that evil Counsellor is remov'd ; and the Sovereign is graciously dispos'd to hear my grievances.

Dom. Go to, go to ; I find good Counsel is but thrown away upon you : Fare you well, fare you well, Son ! ah——

Lorenzo. How ! Will you turn Recreant at the last cast ? You must along to countenance my undertaking : We are at the door Man.

Dom. Well, I have thought on't ; and I will not go.

Lorenzo. You may stay, Father ; but no Fifty pounds without it : that was only promis'd in the Bond : But the Condition of this Obligation is such, That if the above-named Father, Father Dominic, do not well and faithfully perform——

Dom. Now I better think on't, I will bear you company ; for the Reverence of my Presence may be a curb to your Exorbitancies.

Lorenzo. Lead up your Myrmidon, and enter.

[Exeunt.

Enter Elvira, in her Chamber.

Elvira. He'll come, that's certain : young Appetites are sharp ; and seldom need twice bidding to such a Banquet ; — well ; if I prove frail, as I hope I shall not, till I have compass'd my Design ; never Woman had such a Husband to provoke her, such a Lover to allure her, or such a Confessor to absolve her. Of what am

am I afraid then? not my Conscience, that's safe enough; my Ghostly Father has given it a Dose of Church-Opium, to lull it: well, for soothing Sin, I'll say that for him, he's a Chaplain for any Court in Christendom.

Enter Lorenzo and Dominic.

O, Father Dominic, what News? How, a Companion with you! What Game have you in hand, that you hunt in Couples?

Lorenzo. (Lifting up his Hood.) I'll shew you that immediatly.

Elvira. O, my Love!

Lorenzo. My Life!

Elvira. My Soul! (They embrace.)

Dom. I am taken on the sudden with a grievous swimming in my Head, and such a mist before my Eyes, that I can neither hear nor see.

Elvira. Stay, and I'll fetch you some comfortable Water.

Dom. No, no; nothing but the open Air will do me good. I'll take a turn in your Garden: but remember that I trust you both, and do not wrong my good opinion of you.

[Exit Dominic.]

Elvira. This is certainly the dust of Gold which you have thrown in the good Man's Eyes, that on the sudden he cannot see; for my mind misgives me, this Sickness of his is but Apocryphal!

Lorenzo. 'Tis no Qualm of Conscience I'll be sworn: you see, Madam, 'tis Interest governs all the World: he preaches against Sin; why? because he gets by't: he holds his Tongue; why? because so much more is bidden for his silence: 'Tis but giving a Man his price, and Principles of Church are bought off as easily as they are in State; no Man will be a Rogue for nothing, but Compensation must be made, so much Gold for so much Honesty; and then a Church-man will break the Rules of Chefs; for the black Bishop will skip into the white, and the white into the black, without considering whether the remove be lawful.

Elvira. And so much for the Fryar.

Lorenzo. Oh, those Eyes of yours reproach me justly: that I neglect the Subject which brought me hither.

Elvira. Do you consider the hazard I have run to see you here? if you do, methinks it shou'd inform you, that I love not at a common rate.

Lorenzo. Nay, if you talk of considering, let us consider why we are alone. Do you think the Fryar left us together to tell Beads? Love is a kind of a penurious God, very niggardly of his opportunities, he must be watch'd like a hard-hearted Treasurer, for he bolts out on the sudden, and if you take him not in the nick, he vanishes in a twinkling.

Elvira. Why do you make such hast to have done loving me? You Men are all like Watches, wound up for striking twelve immediatly; but, after you are satisfied, the very next that follows is the solitary sound of single one.

Lorenzo. How, Madam! Do you invite me to a Feast, and then preach Abstinence?

Elvira. No, I invite you to a Feast where the Dishes are serv'd up in order: you are for making a hasty meal, and for chopping up your entertainment, like an hungry Clown: trust my management, good Colonel; and call not for your Desert too soon: believe me, that which comes last, as it is the sweetest, so it cloyes the soonest.

Lorenzo. I perceive, Madam, by your holding me at this distance, that there is some-somewhat you expect from me : what am I to undertake or suffer e'er I can be happy ?

Elvira. I must first be satisfied that you love me.

Lorenzo. By all that's holy ; By these dear Eyes.

Elvira. Spare your Oaths and Protestations ; I know you Gallants of the time have a mint at your tongues-end to coin them.

Lorenzo. You know you cannot marry me : but, By Heavens, if you were in a condition ———

Elvira. Then you would not be so prodigal of your Promises, but have the Fear of Matrimony before your eyes : in few words, if you love me, as you profess, deliver me from this Bondage, take me out of Egypt, and I'll wander with you as far as Earth, and Seas, and Love can carry us.

Lorenzo. I never was out at a mad Frolick, though this is the maddest I ever undertook ; have with you, Lady, mine ; I take you at your word ; and, if you are for a merry Jaunt, I'll try for once who can foot it farthest : there are Hedges in Summer, and Barns in Winter to be found : I, with my Knapsack, and you, with your Bottle at your Back : we'll leave Honour to Madmen, and Riches to Knaves ; and travel till we come to the ridge of the World, and then drop together into the next.

Elvira. Give me your Hand, and strike a Bargain.

[He takes her Hand, and kisses it.]

Lorenzo. In sign and token whereof the Parties interchangeably, and so forth—when should I be weary of Sealing upon this Soft-wax ?

Elvira. O, Heavens ! I hear my Husband's voice.

Emer Gomez.

Gom. Where are you, Gentlewoman ? there's something in the wind I'm sure, because your Woman would have run up Stairs before me : but I have secur'd her below with a Gag in her Chaps ——— now, in the Devil's name, what makes this Fryar here again ? I do not like these frequent Conjunctions of the flesh and spirit ; they are boding.

Elvira. Go hence, good Father ; my Husband you see is in an ill humour ; and I would not have you witness of his folly.

[Lorenzo going.]

Gom. (Running to the door.) By your Reverence's favour, hold a little, I must examin you something better before you go : Hey-day ! who have we here ? Father Dominic is shrunk in the wetting two yards and a half about the Belly : what are become of those two Timber-loggs that he us'd to wear for Legs, that stood strutting like the two black Posts before a door ? I am afraid some bad Body has been setting him over a Fire in a great Cauldron, and boil'd him down half the quantity for a Receipt : this is no Father Dominic, no huge over-grown Abbey-lubber ; this is but a diminutive sucking Fryar : as sure as a Gun now, Father Dominic has been spawning this young, slender Anti-christ.

Elvira. (Aside.) He will be found ; there's no prevention.

Gom. Why does he not speak ? What ! Is the Fryar possess'd with a dumb Devil ? If he be, I shall make bold to conjure him.

Elvira. He's but a Novice in his Order, and is injoin'd Silence for a Penance.

Gom. A Novice, quoth a ; You would make a Novice of me too, if you could ; but, what was his business here ? Answer me that, Gentlewoman, answer me that.

Elvira.

The Double Discovery.

25

Elvira. What shou'd it be, but to give me some Spiritual Instructions?

Gom. Very good; and you are like to edifie much from a dumb Preacher; this will not pass; I must examine the Contents of him a little closer; O thou Confessor! confess who thou art, or thou art no Fryar of this World:

{ *He comes to Lorenzo, who struggles with him; his Habit flies open,
and discovers a Sword: Gomez starts back,*

As I live, this is a manifest member of the Church Militant.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) I am discover'd; now Impudence be my Refuge—Yes, Faith 'tis I, honest Gomez; thou seest I use thee like a Friend: this is a familiar Visit.

Gom. What! Colonel Hernando turn'd a Fryar! who could have suspected you of so much Godliness?

Lorenzo. E'en as thou seest, I make bold here.

Gom. A very frank manner of proceeding; but I do not wonder at your Visit, after so friendly an Invitation as I made you; marry, I hope, you will excuse the Blunderbusses for not being in readiness to salute you; but, let me know your hour, and all shall be mended another time.

Lorenzo. Hang it; I hate such ripping up of old unkindness; I was upon the frolick this evening, and came to visit thee in Masquerade.

Gom. Very likely; and not finding me at home, you were forc'd to toy away an hour with my Wife, or so.

Lorenzo. Right: Thou speakest my very Soul.

Gom. Why, am not I then a Friend to help you out? you wou'd have been fumbling half an hour for this excuse—but, as I remember, you promis'd to storm my Citadel, and bring your Regiment of Red Locusts upon me for Free-quarter: I find, Colonel, by your Habit, there are black Locusts in the World as well as Red.

Elvira. (Aside.) When comes my share of the reckoning to be call'd for?

Lorenzo. Give me thy Hand; Thou art the honestest, kind Man; I was resolv'd I wou'd not out of thy house till I had seen thee.

Gom. No, in my Conscience, if I had staid abroad till midnight. But, Colonel, you and I shall talk in another tone hereafter; I mean, in cold friendship, at a Bar, before a Judge, by the way of Plaintiff and Defendant: your Excuses want some grains to make 'em current: hum and ha will not do the business—there's a modest Lady of your acquaintance, she has so much Grace to make none at all, but silently to confess the power of Dame Nature working in her Body to Youthfull Appetite.

Elvira. How he got in I know not, unless it were by virtue of his Habit.

Gom. Ai, ai, the Virtues of that Habit are known abundantly.

Elvira. I cou'd not hinder his entrance, for he took me unprovided.

Gom. To resist him.

Elvira. I'm sure he has not been here above a quarter of an hour.

Gom. And a quarter of that time wou'd have serv'd the turn: O thou Epitome of thy vertuous Sex! Madam Messalina the Second, retire to thy apartment: I have an Assignment there to make with thee.

Elvira. I am all Obedience——

[Exit Elvira.

Lorenzo. I find, Gomez, you are not the Man I thought you: we may meet before we come to the Bar, we may, and our Differences may be decided by other Wea-

Pons than by Lawyers tongues ; in the mean time, no ill treatment of your Wife, as you hope to die a natural death, and go to Hell in your Bed : Bilbo is the word, remember that, and tremble.— [He's going out.]

Enter Dominic.

Dom. Where is this naughty couple ? Where are you, in the name of Goodness ? My mind misgave me ; and I durst trust you no longer with your selves ; here will be fine work, I'm afraid, at your next confession.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) The Devil is punctual, I see, he has paid me the shame he ow'd me ; and now the Fryar is coming in for his part too.

Dom. (Seeing Gom.) Bless my Eyes ? What do I see ?

Gom. Why ; you see a Cuckold of this honest Gentleman's making : I thank him for his pains.

Dom. I confess, I am astonish'd !

Gom. What, at a Cuckoldom of your own contrivance ! your Head-piece and his Limbs have done my business. Nay, do not look so strangely, remember your own words, Here will be fine work at your next Confession : What naughty Couple were they whom you durst not trust together any longer ? when the hypocritical Rogue had trusted 'em a full quarter of an hour ; and, by the way, horns will sprout in less time than Mushrooms.

Dom. Beware how you accuse one of my Order upon light suspicions : the naughty Couple that I mean, were your Wife and You, whom I left together with great Animosities on both sides : now, that was the occasion, mark me Gomez, that I thought it convenient to return again, and not to trust your enraged Spirits too long together : you might have broken out into Revilings and matrimonial Warfare, which are Sins ; and new Sins make work for new Confessions.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) Well said, i'faith, Fryar ; thou art come off thy self, but poor I am left in Limbo.

Gom. Angle in some other Ford, good Father, you shall catch no Gudgeons here : look upon the Prisoner at the Bar, Fryar, and inform the Court what you know concerning him ; he is arraign'd here by the name of Colonel Hernando.

Dom. What Colonel do you mean, Gomez ? I see no Man, but a Reverend Brother of our Order, whose Profession I honour, but whose Person I know not, as I hope for Paradise.

Gom. No, you are not acquainted with him, the more's the pity ; you do not know him, under this Disguise, for the greatest Cuckold-maker in all Spain.

Dom. O Impudence ! O Rogue ! O Villain ! Nay, if he be such a Man, my Righteous Spirit rises at him ! Does he put on Holy Garments for a cover-shame of leudness ?

Gom. Yes, and he's in the right on't, Father ; when a swinging Sin is to be committed, nothing will cover it so close as a Fryar's Hood ; for there the Devil plays at Bo-peep, puts out his Horns to do a mischief, and then shrinks 'em back for safety, like a Snail into her shell.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) It's best marching off while I can retreat with Honour ; there's no trusting this Fryar's Conscience ; he has renounc'd me already more heartily than e'er he did the Devil, and is in a fair way to prosecute me for putting on these Holy Robes : this is the old Church trick, the Clergy is ever at the bottom of the Plot, but they are wise enough to slip their own Necks out of the Collar, and leave the Lairy to be fairly hang'd for it.— [Exit Lorenzo.]

Gom.

The Double Discovery.

27

Gom. Follow your Leader, Fryar; your Colonel is troop'd off, but he had not gone so easily, if I durst have trusted you in the House behind me; gather up your gouty Legs, I say, and rid my House of that huge Body of Divinity.

Dom. I expect some Judgment shou'd fall upon you for your want of Reverence to your Spiritual Director: Slander, Covetousness, and Jealousie will weigh thee down.

Gom. Put Pride, Hypocrisie, and Gluttony, into your Scale, Father, and you shall weigh against me: Nay, and Sins come to be divided once, the Clergy puts in for nine parts, and scarce leaves the Laity a Tithe.

Dom. How darest thou reproach the Tribe of Levi?

Gom. Marry, because you make us Lay-men of the Tribe of Issachar: You make Asses of us, to bear your Burthens. When we are young you put Paniers upon us, with your Church Discipline; and when we are grown up you load us with a Wife: After that you procure for other Men; and then you load our Wives too. A fine Phrase you have amongst you to draw us into Marriage; you call it Settling a Man; just as when a Fellow has got a sound Knock upon the Head, they say he's settled: Marriage is a Settling Blow indeed. They say every thing in the World is good for something, as a Toad, to suck up the Venom of the Earth; but I never knew what a Fryar was good for, till your Pimping shew'd me.

Dom. Thou shalt answer for this, thou Slanderer; thy Offences be upon thy head.

Gom. I believe there are some Offences there of your planting. [Ex. Dom.]
Lord, Lord, that Men should have sense enough to set Snares in their Warrens to catch Pol-cats, and Foxes, and yet ———

Want wit a Priest-trap at their door to lay,
For holy Vermin that in Houses prey.

[Exit Gomez.]

Queen, Teresa.

Ter. You are not what you were since yesterday:
Your food forsakes you, and your needful rest:
You pine, you languish, love to be alone;
Think much, speak little; and in speaking sigh.
When you see Torrismond you are unquiet;
But when you see him not you are in pain.

Qu. O, let 'em never love who never try'd!
They brought a Paper to me to be signed;
Thinking on him I quite forgot my name,
And writ for Leonora, Torrismond.
I went to Bed, and to my self I thought,
That I would think on Torrismond no more;
Then shut my Eyes, but could not shut out him.
I turn'd, and tried each corner of my Bed,
To find if Sleep were there, but Sleep was lost.
Fev'rish for want of Rest, I rise, and walk'd;
And by the Moon-shine to the Windows went;
There, thinking to exclude him from my thoughts,

I cast my Eyes upon the neighbouring fields ;
And, e'er I was aware, sigh'd to my self,
There fought my Torrismond.

Ter. What hinders you to take the Man you love ?
The People will be glad, the Soldiers shout ;
The Old King's Party will despair to find
A Prince whose Courage can support the Throne.
And Bertran, though repining, will be aw'd.

Qu. I fear to try new Love,
As Boys to venture on the unknown Ice,
That crackles underneath 'em, while they slide.
Oh, how shall I describe this growing ill !
Betwixt my Doubt and Love methinks I stand
Alt'ring, like one that waits an Ague fit ;
And yet wou'd this were all !

Ter. What fear you more ?

Qu. I am asham'd to say, 'tis but a fancy.
At break of day, when Dreams, they say, are true,
A drowsie slumber, rather than a sleep,
Seiz'd on my Senses, with long Watching worn.
Methought I stood on a wide River's Bank,
Which I must needs o'er-pass, but knew not how :
When on a sudden Torrismond appear'd,
Gave me his hand, and led me lightly o'er,
Leaping and bounding on the Billows heads.
Till safely we had reach'd the farther shore.

Ter. This Dream portends some ill which you shall scape.
Wou'd you see fairer Visions ? Take this night
Your Torrismond within your Arms to sleep ;
And, to that end, invent some apt pretence
To break with Bertran : 'twould be better yet,
Cou'd you provoke him to give you th' occasion,
And then to throw him off.

Enter Bertran at a distance.

Qu. My Stars have sent him :
For, see, he comes, how gloomily he looks !
If he, as I suspect, have found my Love,
His Jealousie will furnish him with Fury,
And me with means to part.

Bertr. (Aside.) Shall I upbraid her ? Shall I call her false ?
If she be false, 'tis what she most desires.
My Genius whispers me, Be cautious, Bertran !
Thou walkest as on a narrow Mountain's Neck,
A dreadfull height, with scanty room to tread.

Qu. What Business have you at the Court, my Lord ?

Bertr. What business, Madam ?

Qu. Yes, my Lord, what business ?

The Double Discovery.

29

'Tis somewhat sure of weighty consequence
That brings you here so often, and unsent for.

Bertr. (Aside.) 'Tis what I fear'd, her words are cold enough
To freeze a Man to death. ——— May I presume
To speak, and to complain?

Qu. They who complain to Princes think 'em tame:
What Bull dare bellow, or, what Sheep dare bleat,
Within the Lion's Den?

Bertr. Yet Men are suffer'd to put Heav'n in mind
Of promis'd Blessings, for they then are Debts.

Qu. My Lord, Heav'n knows its own time when to give;
But you, it seems, charge me with Breach of Faith.

Bertr. I hope I need not, Madam:
But as when Men in Sickness lingering lie,
They count the tedious hours by Months and Years;
So every day deferr'd to Dying Lovers
Is a whole Age of pain.

Qu. What if I ne'er consent to make you mine?
My Father's Promise ties me not to time;
And Bonds without a Date, they say, are void.

Bertr. Far be it from me to believe you bound:
Love is the freest motion of our minds:
O, cou'd you see into my secret Soul,
There you might read your own Dominion doubled,
Both as a Queen and Mistress: if you leave me,
Know, I can dye, but dare not be displeas'd.

Qu. Sure you affect Stupidity, my Lord,
Or give me cause to think that when you lost
Three Battels to the Moors, you coldly stood
As unconcern'd as now.

Bertr. I did my best;
Fate was not in my power.

Qu. And with the like tame Gravity you saw
A raw young Warrior take your baffled work,
And end it at a blow.

Bertr. I humbly take my leave; but they who blast
Your good opinion of me, may have cause
To know I am no Coward.

[He is going.]

Qu. Bertran, Stay;

(Aside.) This may produce some dismal consequence
To him who dearer than my Life I love.

To him. Have I not manag'd my contrivance well,
To Try your Love, and make you doubt of mine?

Bertr. Then was it but a Tryal?
Methinks I start, as from some dreadfull Dream;
And often ask my self, if yet I wake.

(Aside.)

(Aside.) This turns too quick to be without Design ;
I'll sound the bottom of 't e'er I believe.

Qu. I find your Love, and would reward it too ;
But anxious Fears solicit my weak Breast :
I fear my People's Faith :
That hot-mouth'd Beast that bears against the Curb,
Hard to be broken, even by lawfull Kings ;
But harder by Usurpers :
Judge then, my Lord, with all these Cares oppress'd,
If I can think of Love.

Bertr. Believe me, Madam,
These jealousies, however large they spread,
Have but one Root, the old imprison'd King ;
Whose Lenity first pleas'd the gaping Crowd :
But when long tried, and found supinely good,
Like Ajop's Logg, they leapt upon his Back :
Your Father knew 'em well ; and when he mounted,
He rein'd 'em strongly, and he spurr'd 'em hard ;
And, but he durst not do it all at once,
He had not left alive this patient Saint,
This Anvil of Affronts, but sent him hence,
To hold a peacefull Branch of Palm above,
And hymn it in the Quire:

Qu. You've hit upon the very String, which touch'd,
Echoes the Sound, and jars within my Soul ;
There lies my Grief.

Bertr. So long as there's a Head,
Thither will all the mounting Spirits flie ;
Lop that but off, and then——

Qu. My Vertue shrinks from such an horrid Act.

Bertr. This 'tis to have a Vertue out of season.
Mercy is good ; a very good dull Vertue ;
But Kings mistake its timing, and are mild
When manly Courage bids 'em be severe :
Better be cruel once than anxious ever :
Remove this threat'ning Danger from your Crown ;
And then securely take the Man you love.

Qu. (Walking aside.) Ha ! let me think of that : the Man I love ;
'Tis true, this Murther is the only means
That can secure my Throne to Torrismond.
Nay more, this Execution done by Bertran,
Makes him the Object of the Peoples Hate.

Bertr. (Aside.) The more she thinks 'twill work the stronger in her

Qu. (Aside.) How eloquent is Mischief to persuade !
Few are so wicked as to take delight
In Crimes unprofitable, nor do I :
If then I break divine and humane Laws,

The Double Discovery.

31

No Bribe but Love cou'd gain so bad a Cause.

Bertr. You answer nothing !

Qu. 'Tis of deep Concernment,
And I a Woman ignorant and weak :
I leave it all to you, think what you do
You do for him I love.

Bertr. (Aside.) For him she loves ?
She nam'd not me ; that may be Torrismoud,
Whom she has thrice in private seen this day :
Then I am fairly caught in my own Snare.
I'll think again——Madam, it shall be done :
And mine be all the blame.

[Exit Bertr.

Qu. O, that it were ! I wou'd not do this Crime,
And yet, like Heaven, permit it to be done.
The Priesthood grossly cheats us with Free-will :
Will to do what, but what Heaven first decreed ?
Our Actions then are neither good nor ill,
Since from eternal Causes they proceed :
Our Passions, Fear and Anger, Love and Hate.
Mere senseless Engins that are mov'd by Fate ;
Like Ships on stormy Seas, without a Guide,
Toft by the Winds, and driven by the Tyde.

Enter Torrismoud.

Torr. Am I not rudely bold, and press too often
Into your presence, Madam ? If I am——

Qu. No more ; lest I shou'd chide you for your stay :
Where have you been ? and, How cou'd you suppose
That I cou'd live these two long hours without you ?

Torr. O, words to charm an Angel from his Orb !
Welcome, as kindly Showres to long parch'd Earth !
But I have been in such a dismal place
Where Joy ne'er enters, which the Sun ne'er cheers :
Bound in with Darkness, over-spread with Damps :
Where I have seen (if I cou'd say, I saw)
The good Old King Majestick in his Bonds,
And 'midst his Griefs most venerably great :
By a dim winking Lamp, which feebly broke
The gloomy Vapors, he lay stretch'd along
Upon th'unwholsome Earth, his Eyes fix'd upward :
And ever and anon a silent Tear
Stole down, and trickl'd from his hoary Beard.

Qu. O Heaven, what have I done ! my gentle Love,
Here end thy sad discourse, and, for my sake,
Cast off these fearful melancholy thoughts.

Torr. My heart is wither'd at that piteous Sight,
As early Blossoms are with Eastern blasts :
He sent for me, and, while I rais'd his Head,

He

He threw his aged Arms about my Neck ;
 And, seeing that I wept, he press'd me close :
 So, leaning Cheek to Cheek, and Eyes to Eyes,
 We mingled Tears in a dumb Scene of Sorrow.

Qu. Forbear : you know not how you wound my Soul.

Torr. Can you have Grief, and not have Pity too !

He told me, when my Father did return,
 He had a wondrous Secret to disclose :
 He kiss'd me, bless'd me, nay, he call'd me Son ;
 He prais'd my Courage, pray'd for my Success :
 He was so true a Father of his Country,
 To thank me for defending e'en his Foes,
 Because they were his Subjects.

Qu. If they be ; then what am I ?

Torr. The Sovereign of my Soul, my Earthly Heaven

Qu. And not your Queen ?

Torr. You are so beautifull,

So wondrous fair, you justify Rebellion :
 As if that faultless Face could make no Sin,
 But Heaven, with looking on it, must forgive.

Qu. The King must die, he must, my Torrismond ;
 Though Pity softly plead within my Soul,
 Yet he must die, that I may make you great,
 And give a Crown in dowry with my Love.

Torr. Perish that Crown—on any Head but yours ; —
 O, recollect your Thoughts !

Shake not his Hour-glass, when his hasty Sand
 Is ebbing to the last :

A little longer, yet a little longer,
 And Nature drops him down, without your Sin,
 Like mellow Fruit, without a Winter Storm.

Qu. Let me but do this one Injustice more :
 His Doom is past ; and, for your sake, he dies.

Torr. Wou'd you, for me, have done so ill an Act,
 And will not do a good one ?

Now, by your Joys on Earth, your Hopes in Heaven,
 O spare this Great, this Good, this Aged King ;
 And spare your Soul the Crime !

Qu. The Crime's not mine ;
 'Twas first propos'd, and must be done, by Bertran,
 Fed with false hopes to gain my Crown and Me :
 I, to enhance his Ruine, gave no leave ;
 But barely bad him think, and then resolve.

Torr. In not forbidding, you command the Crime ;
 Think, timely think, on the last dreadfull day ;
 How will you tremble there to stand expos'd,
 And foremost in the rank of guilty Ghosts

The Double Discovery.

33

That must be doom'd for Murther ; think on Murther :
That Troop is plac'd apart from common Crimes :
The damn'd themselves start wide, and shun that Band,
As far more black, and more forlorn than they.

Qu. 'Tis terrible, it shakes, it staggers me ;
I knew this Truth, but I repell'd that Thought ;
Sure there is none but fears a future state ;
And when the most obdurate swear they do not,
Their trembling Hearts belie their boasting Tongues.

Enter Terefa.

Send speedily to Bertran ; charge him strictly
Not to proceed, but wait my farther Pleasure.

Ter. Madam, he sends to tell you, 'tis perform'd.

[Exit Terefa:

Torr. Ten thousand Plagues consume him, Furies drag him,
Fiends tear him ; Blasted be the Arm that strook,
The Tongue that order'd ; ——— only She be spar'd
That hindred not the Deed. O, where was then
The Power that guards the sacred Lives of Kings ?
Why slept the Lightning and the Thunder-bolts,
Or bent their idle rage on Fields and Trees,
When Vengeance call'd 'em here ?

Qu. Sleep that Thought too,
'Tis done, and since 'tis done, 'tis past recall :
And since 'tis past recall, 't must be forgotten.

Torr. O, never, never shall it be forgotten ;
High Heaven will not forget it, after Ages
Shall with a fearfull Curse remember ours ;
And Blood shall never leave the Nation more !

Qu. His Body shall be Royally interr'd,
And the last Funeral Poms adorn his Hearse ;
I will my self (as I have cause too just)
Be the chief Mourner at his Obsequies :
And yearly fix on the revolving day
The solemn marks of Mourning, to atone
And expiate my Offences.

Torr. Nothing can,
But bloody Vengeance on that Traitor's Head,
Which, dear departed Spirit, here I vow.

Qu. Here end our Sorrows, and begin our Joys :
Love calls, my Torrismond ; though Hate has rag'd
And rul'd the day, yet Love will rule the night.
The spitefull Stars have shed their Venom down,
And now the peacefull Planets take their turn.
This Deed of Bertran's has remov'd all Fears,
And giv'n me just occasion to refuse him.
What hinders now, but that the holy Priest
In secret join our mutual Vows ? and then

F

This

This night, this happy night is yours and mine.

Torr. Be still my Sorrows, and be loud my Joys,
Fly to the utmost Circles of the Sea,

Thou furious Tempest that hast tost my mind,

And leave no thought but Leonora there. ———

What's this I feel aboding in my Soul?

As if this day were fatal; be it so:

Fate shall have but the Leavings of my Love:

My Joys are gloomy, but withall are great;

The Lion, though he see the Toils are set,

Yet, pinch'd with raging Hunger, scowrs away,

Hunts in the Face of Danger all the day;

At night with fullen pleasure, grumbles o'er his Prey.

[Exeunt ambo.]

ACT IV.

SCENE, Before Gomez his Door.

Enter Lorenzo, Dominic, and two Soldiers at a distance.

Dom. I'LL not wag an ace farther: The whole World shall not bribe me to it; for my Conscience will digest these gross Enormities no longer.

Lorenzo. How, thy Conscience not digest 'em! There's near a Fryar in Spain can shew a Conscience that comes near it for Digestion: it digested Pimping when I sent thee with my Letter; and it digested Perjury when thou swore'st thou didst not know me; I'm sure it has digested me Fifty Pound of as hard Gold as is in all
Barbary: Prithee, why shouldst thou discourage Fornication, when thou know'st thou lovest a sweet young Girl?

Dom. Away, away; I do not love 'em; ——— phau; no, ——— spits.
I do not love a pretty Girl; ——— you are so waggish; ——— spits again.

Lorenzo. Why, thy Mouth waters at the very mention of them.

Dom. You take a mighty pleasure in Defamation, Colonel; but I wonder what you find in running restless up and down, breaking your Brains, emptying your Purse, and wearing out your Body with hunting after unlawfull Game.

Lorenzo. Why, there's the Satisfaction on't.

Dom. This Incontinency may proceed to Adultery, and Adultery to Murther, and Murther to Hanging; and there's the Satisfaction on't.

Lorenzo. I'll not hang alone, Fryar; I'm resolv'd to peach thee before thy Superious for what thou hast done already.

Dom. I'm resolv'd to forswear it if you do: Let me advise you better, Colonel, than to accuse a Church-man to a Church-man: in the common Cause we are all of a piece; we hang together.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) If you don't, it were no matter if you did.

Dom. Nay, if you talk of Peaching, I'll peach first, and see whose Oath will be

The Double Discovery.

35

be believ'd ; I'll trounce you for offering to corrupt my Honesty, and bribe my Conscience ; you shall be summon'd by an host of Parators ; you shall be sentenc'd in the Spiritual Court ; you shall be excommunicated ; you shall be outlaw'd ; — and ———

{ Here Lorenzo takes a Purse, and plays with it, and, at last, lets the Purse fall chinking on the ground ; which the Fryar eyes.

In another tone. I say a Man might do this now, if he were maliciously dispos'd, and had a mind to bring matters to extremity ; but, considering that you are my Friend, a Person of Honour, and a worthy good charitable Man, I wou'd rather die a thousand Deaths than disoblige you.

{ Lorenzo takes up the Purse, and pours it into the Fryar's sleeve.

Nay, Good Sir ! nay, Dear Colonel ! O Lord, Sir, what are you doing now ! I profess this must not be : without this I wou'd have serv'd you to the uttermost ; pray command me : a jealous foul mouth'd Rogue this Gomez is : I saw how he us'd you, and you mark'd how he us'd me too : O he's a bitter Man ; but we'll join our Forces ; ah, shall we, Colonel ? we'll be reveng'd on him with a witness.

Lorenzo. But how shall I send her word to be ready at the door, (for I must reveal it in Confession to you,) that I mean to carry her away this Evening, by the help of these two Soldiers : I know Gomez suspects you, and you will hardly gain admittance.

Dom. Let me alone ; I fear him not ; I am arm'd with the Authority of my cloathing ; yonder I see him keeping Centry at his door : have you never seen a Citizen, in a cold morning, clapping his sides, and walking forward and backward a mighty pace before his Shop ? but I'll gain the Pass in spite of his suspicion ; stand you aside, and do but mark how I accost him.

Lorenzo. If he meet with a repulse, we must throw off the Fox's skin, and put on the Lion's ; come, Gentlemen, you'll stand by me.

Soldier. Do not doubt us, Colonel.

Dom. Good Even, Gomez ; how does your Wife ?

Gom. Just as you wou'd have her, thinking on nothing, but her dear Colonel, and conspiring Cuckoldom against me.

Dom. I dare say you wrong her, she is employing her thoughts how to cure you of your Jealousie.

Gom. Yes, by Certainty.

Dom. By your leave, Gomez ; I have some Spiritual Advice to impart to her on that Subject.

Gom. You may spare your Instructions if you please, Father, she has no farther need of them.

Dom. How, no need of them ! Do you speak in Riddles ?

Gom. Since you will have me speak plainer ; she has profited so well already by your Counsel, that she can say her Lesson without your teaching : Do you understand me now ?

Dom. I must not neglect my duty, for all that ; once again, Gomez, by your leave.

Gom. She's a little indisposed at present, and it will not be convenient to disturb her. [Dominic offers to go by him, but i' other stands before him.]

Dom. Indisposed, say you? O, it is upon those occasions that a Confessor is most necessary; I think it was my good Angel that sent me hither so opportunely.

Gom. Ay, whose good Angels sent you hither, that you best know, Father.

Dom. A word or two of Devotion will do her no harm, I'm sure.

Gom. A little sleep will do her more good, I'm sure: You know she disburthen'd her Conscience but this morning to you.

Dom. But if she be ill this afternoon, she may have new occasion to confess.

Gom. Indeed, as you order matters with the Colonel, she may have occasion of confessing her self every hour.

Dom. Pray, how long has she been sick?

Gom. Lord, you will force a Man to speak; why, ever since your last defeat.

Dom. This can be but some light Indisposition, it will not last, and I may see her.

Gom. How, not last! I say it will last, and it shall last: She shall be sick these seven or eight days, and perhaps longer, as I see occasion: What; I know the mind of her Sicknefs a little better than you do.

Dom. I find then I must bring a Doctor.

Gom. And he'll bring an Apothecary with a chargeable long Bill of Ana's: those of my Family have the Grace to die cheaper: in a word, Sir Dominic, we understand one another's business here: I am resolved to stand like the Swiss of my own Family, to defend the Entrance; you may mumble over your Pater Nosters, if you please, and try if you can make my doors fly open, and batter down my Walls with Bell, Book, and Candle; but I am not of opinion that you are holy enough to commit Miracles.

Dom. Men of my Order are not to be treated after this manner.

Gom. I wou'd treat the Pope, and all his Cardinals, in the same manner, if they offered to see my Wife without my leave.

Dom. I excommunicate thee from the Church, if thou dost not open, there's Promulgation coming out.

Gom. And I excommunicate you from my Wife, if you go to that; there's Promulgation for Promulgation, and Bull for Bull; and so I leave you to recreate your self with the end of an old Song — And Sorrow came to the old Fryar.

Lorenzo comes to him.

[Exit Gomez]

Lorenzo. I will not ask your Success, for I overheard part of it, and saw the Conclusion; I find we are now put upon our last Trump; the Fox is earth'd, but I shall send my two Terriers in after him.

Soldier. I warrant you, Colonel, we'll unkennel him.

Lorenzo. And make what haste you can to bring out the Lady; what say you, Father, Burglary is but a Venial Sin among Soldiers.

Dom. I shall absolve them, because he is an Enemy of the Church — there is a Proverb, I confess, which says, That Dead-men tell no Tales; but let your Soldiers apply it at their own Perils.

Lorenzo. What, take away a Man's Wife, and kill him too! the Wickedness of this Old Villain startles me, and gives me a twinge for my own Sin; tho' it come far short of his: hark you Soldiers, be sure your use as little Violence to him as is possible.

Dom.

The Double Discovery.

37

Dom. Hold a little, I have thought better how to secure him, with less danger to us.

Lorenzo. O Miracle, the Fryar is grown consciencious!

Dom. The Old King, you know, is just murder'd, and the Persons that did it are unknown; let the Soldiers seize him for one of the Assassins, and let me alone to accuse him afterwards.

Lorenzo. I cry thee mercy with all my heart, for suspecting a Fryar of the least good nature; what, wou'd you accuse him wrongfully?

Dom. I must confess, 'tis wrongfull quoad hoc, as to the Fact it self; but 'tis rightfull quoad hunc, as to this Heretical Rogue, whom we must dispatch: he has rail'd against the Church, which is a fouler Crime than the murder of a Thousand Kings; Omne majus continet in se minus: He that is an Enemy to the Church, is an Enemy unto Heaven; and he that is an Enemy to Heaven, wou'd have kill'd the King, if he had been in the Circumstances of doing it: so it is not wrongfull to accuse him.

Lorenzo. I never knew a Church-man, if he were personally offended, but he wou'd bring in Heaven by hook or by crook into his Quarrel. Soldiers, do as you were first order'd. [Exeunt Soldiers.]

Dom. What was't you order'd 'em? Are you sure it's safe, and not scandalous?

Lorenzo. Somewhat near your own Design, but not altogether so mischievous; the People are infinitely discontented, as they have reason; and Mutinies there are or will be, against the Queen; now I am content to put him thus far into the Plot, that he should be secur'd as a Traitor; but he shall only be Prisoner at the Soldiers Quarters; and when I am out of reach, he shall be releas'd.

Dom. And what will become of me then? for when he is free, he will infallibly accuse me.

Lorenzo. Why then, Father, you must have recourse to your infallible Church-remedies; Lye impudently, and Swear devoutly; and, as you told me but now, let him try whose Oath will be first believ'd; Retire; I hear 'em coming.

[They withdraw.]

Enter the Soldiers with Gomez struggling on their backs.

Gom. Help, Good Christians, help Neighbours; my House is broken open by force; and I am ravish'd, and am like to be assassinated; what do you mean, Villains? Will you carry me away like a Pedler's Pack upon your backs? Will you murder a Man in plain day-light?

First Soldier. No: But we'll secure you for a Traitor; and for being in a Plot against the State.

Gom. Who, I in a Plot! O Lord! O Lord! I never durst be in a Plot; why, how can you in Conscience suspect a rich Citizen of so much wit as to make a Plotter? there are none but poor Rogues, and those that can't live without it, that are in Plots.

Second Soldier. Away with him, away with him.

Gom. O my Gold! my Wife! my Wife! my Gold! As I hope to be sav'd now, I know no more of the Plot than they that made it.

[They carry him off, and exeunt.]

Lor. Thus far have we sail'd with a merry gale, and now we have the Cape of Good hope in sight; the Trade-wind is our own if we can but double it. [He looks out.]

(Aside.)

(Aside.) Ah, my Father and Pedro stand at the corner of the Street with company, there's no stirring till they are past !

Enter Elvira with a Casket.

Elvira. Am I come at last into your Arms !

Lorenzo. Fear nothing ; the Adventure's ended ; and the Knight may carry off the Lady safely.

Elvira. I'm so over-joy'd, I can scarce believe I am at liberty ; but stand panting like a Bird that has often beaten her wings in vain against her Cage, and at last dares hardly venture out though she sees it open.

Dom. Lose no time, but make haste while the way is free for you ; and there-upon I give you my Benediction.

Lorenzo. 'Tis not so free as you suppose ; for there's an old Gentleman of my acquaintance that blocks up the passage at the corner of the Street.

Dom. What have you gotten there under your Arm, Daughter ? somewhat I hope that will bear your Charges in your Pilgrimage.

Lorenzo. The Fryar has an Hawk's eye to Gold and Jewels.

Elvira. Here's that will make you dance without a Fiddle, and provide better Entertainment for us than Hedges in Summer, and Barns in Winter ; here's the very Heart and Soul, and Life and Blood of Gomez ; Pawns in abundance, old Gold of Widows, and new Gold of Prodigals, and Pearls and Diamonds of Court Ladies, till the next Bribe helps their Husbands to redeem 'em.

Dom. They are the Spoils of the Wicked, and the Church endows you with 'em.

Lorenzo. And, Faith, we'll drink the Church's Health out of them. But all this while I stand on Thorns ; prithee, Dear, look out, and see if the coast be free for our Escape ; for I dare not peep for fear of being known.

{ Elvira goes to look, and Gomez comes running in upon her : she shrieks out.

Gom. Thanks to my Stars, I have recover'd my own Territories——What do I see ! I'm ruin'd ! I'm undone ! I'm betray'd !

Dom. (Aside.) What a hopefull Enterprize is here spoil'd ?

Gom. O, Colonel, are you there ? and you, Fryar ? nay, then I find how the World goes.

Lorenzo. Cheer up Man ; thou art out of jeopardy ; I heard thee crying out just now ; and came running in full speed with the Wings of an Eagle, and the Feet of a Tyger to thy rescue.

Gom. Ay, you are always at hand to do me a Courtesie with your Eagle's Feet, and your Tyger's Wings : and, What were you here for, Fryar ?

Dom. To interpose my Spiritual Authority in your behalf.

Gom. And why did you shriek out, Gentlewoman ?

Elvira. 'Twas for Joy at your Return.

Gom. And that Casket under your Arm, for what end and purpose ?

Elvira. Only to preserve it from the Thieves.

Gom. And you came running out of doors——

Elvira. Only to meet you, sweet Husband.

Gom. A fine Evidence sum'n'd up among you ; thank you heartily ; you are all my Friends : the Colonel was walking by accidentally, and, hearing my voice, came in to save me ; the Fryar, who was hobbling the same way too, accidentally again, again, and not knowing of the Colonel, I warrant you, he comes in to pray for me; and my faithfull Wife runs out of doors to meet me with all my Jewels under her Arm, and shrieks out for Joy at my return: but if my Father-in-law had not met your Soldiers, Colonel, and deliver'd me in the nick, I shou'd neither have found a Friend nor a Fryar here, and might have shriek'd out for joy my self for the loss of my Jewels and my Wife.

Dom. Art thou an Infidel? Wilt thou not believe us?

Gom. Such Church-men as you wou'd make any Man an Infidel: Get you into your Kennel, Gentlewoman; I shall thank you within-doors for your safe custody of my Jewels and your own. [He thrusts his Wife off the Stage. [Exit Elvira. As for you, Colonel Huff cap, we shall try before a Civil Magistrate who's the greater Plotter of us two; I against the State, or you against the Petticoat.

Lorenzo. Nay, if you will complain, you shall for something. [Beats him.

Gom. Murther! murther! I give up the Ghost! I'm destroy'd! help! murther! murther!

Dom. Away, Colonel, let us fly for our Lives; the neighbours are coming out with Forks, and Fire-shovels, and Spits, and other domestick Weapons; the Militia of a whole Alley is raised against us.

Lorenzo. This is but the Interest of my Debt, Master Usurer, the Principal shall be paid you at our next meeting.

Dom. Ah, if your Soldiers had but dispatch'd him, his Tongue had been laid asleep, Colonel; but this comes of not following good counsel; ah——

Gom. I'll be reveng'd of him if I dare; but he's such a terrible Fellow, that my mind misgives me, I shall tremble when I have him before the Judge: all my Misfortunes come together: I have been robb'd and cuckolded, and ravish'd, and beaten in one quarter of an hour; my poor Limbs smart, and my poor Head akes: ay, do, do, smart Limb, ake Head, and sprout Horns; but I'll be hang'd before I'll pity you: you must needs be married, must ye? there's for that, (beats his own Head) and to a fine, young, modish Lady, must ye? there's for that too; and, at threescore, you old doting Cuckold, take that remembrance——a fine time of day for a Man to be bound Prentice, when he is past using of his Trade; to set up an equipage of Noise, when he has most need of Quiet; instead of her being under Covert-baron, to be under Covert-feme my self; to have my Body disabl'd, and my Head fortified; and, lastly, to be crowded in a narrow Box with a shrill Treble,

That with one Blast through the whole House does bound,
And first taught Speaking Trumpets how to sound.

SCENE, The Court.

Enter Raymond, Alphonso, Pedro.

Raym. Are these, are these, ye Powers, the promis'd Joys,
With which I flatter'd my long tedious absence,
To find, at my return, my Master murther'd?
O, that I could but weep to vent my Passion!

But

But this dry Sorrow burns up all my Tears.

Alph. Mourn inward, Brother ? 'Tis observ'd at Court
Who weeps, and who wears black ; and your Return
Will fix all Eyes on every Act of yours,
To see how you resent King Sancho's Death.

Raym. What generous Man can live with that Constraint
Upon his Soul, to bear, much less to flatter
A Court like this ! Can I sooth Tyranny ?
Seem pleas'd to see my Royal Master murder'd,
His Crown usurp'd, a Distaff in the Throne ;
A Council made of such as dare not speak,
And could not if they durst ; whence honest Men
Banish themselves for shame of being there :
A Government that, knowing not true Wisdom,
Is scorn'd abroad, and lives on Tricks at home ?

Alph. Vertue must be thrown off, 'tis a coarse garment,
Too heavy for the Sun-shine of a Court :
Yet I have seen even there an honest Man,
That is, as honest as a Court can bear ;
For Courtiers are to be accounted good
When they are not the last and worst of Men.

Raym. Well then, I will dissemble for an end
So great, so pious, as a just Revenge :
You'll join with me.

Alph. No honest Man but must.

Pedro. What Title has this Queen, but Lawless Force ?
And Force must pull her down.

Alph. Truth is, I pity Leonora's case ;
Forc'd, for her Safety, to commit a Crime
Which most her Soul abhors.

Raym. All she has done, or e'er can do, of good,
This one black Deed has damn'd.

Pedro. You'll hardly gain your Son to our Design.

Raym. Your reason for't.

Pedro. I want time to unriddle it :
Put on your tother Face ; the Queen approaches.

Enter the Queen, Bertran, and Attendants.

Raym. And that accursed Bertran
Stalks close behind her, like a Witch's Fiend,
Pressing to be employ'd ; stand, and observe them.

Qu. to Bertran : Bury'd in private, and so suddenly !
It crosses my Design, which was t'allow
The Rites of Funeral fitting his Degree,
With all the Pomp of mourning.

Bertr. It was not safe :
Objects of pity, when the cause is new,
Wou'd work too fiercely on the giddy Crowd :

The Double Discovery.

41

Had Cesar's body never been expos'd;

Brutus had gain'd his Cause.

Qu. Then, was he lov'd?

Bertr. O, never Man so much, for Saint-like goodness.

Pedro. (Aside.) Had bad Men fear'd him, but as good Men lov'd him,
He had not yet been fainted.

Qu. I wonder how the People bear his Death.

Bertr. Some discontents there are ; some idle murmurs.

Pedro. How, Idle Murmurs ! Let me plainly speak :

The doors are all shut up ; the wealthier sort,

With Arms a-crofs, and Hats upon their Eyes,

Walk to and fro before their silent Shops :

Whole droves of Lenders crowd the Bankers doors,

To call in Money ; those who have none, mark

Where Money goes ; for when they rise 'tis Plunder :

The Rabble gather round the Man of News,

And listen with their Mouths ;

Some tell, some hear, some judge of News, some make it ;

And he who lies most loud, is most believ'd.

Qu. This may be dangerous.

Raym. (Aside.) Pray Heaven it may.

Bertr. If one of you must fall ;

Self-preservation is the first of Laws :

And if, when Subjects are oppress'd by Kings,

They justify Rebellion by that Law,

As well may Monarchs turn the edge of right

To cut for them, when self-defence requires it.

Qu. You place such Arbitrary Power in Kings,

That I much fear, if I should make you one,

You'll make your self a Tyrant ; let these know

By what Authority you did this Act.

Bertr. You much surprize me to demand that Question,

But, since Truth must be told, 'Twas by your own.

Qu. Produce it ; or, By Heaven, your Head shall answer

The Forfeit of your Tongue.

Raym. (Aside.) Brave mischief towards.

Bertr. You bad me.

Qu. When, and where?

Bertr. No, I confess, you bad me not in words ;

The Dial spoke not, but it made shrewd signs,

And pointed full upon the stroke of Murther :

Yet this you said,

You were a Woman ignorant and weak,

So left it to my care.

Qu. What if I said,

I was a Woman ignorant and weak,

Were you to take th' advantage of my Sex,

G

And

And play the Devil to tempt me ? You contriv'd,
 You urg'd, you drove me headlong to your toils ;
 And if, much tir'd, and frighted more, I paus'd ;
 Were you to make my Doubts your own Commission ?

Bertr. This 'tis to serve a Prince too faithfully ;
 Who, free from Laws himself, will have that done,
 Which not perform'd brings us to sure Disgrace ;
 And if perform'd to Ruin.

Qu. This 'tis to counsel things that are unjust :
 First to debauch a King to break his Laws,
 (Which are his safety,) and then seek Protection
 From him you have endanger'd ; but Just Heaven,
 When Sins are judg'd, will damn the tempting Devil
 More deep than those he tempted.

Bertr. If Princes not protect their Ministers,
 What Man will dare to serve them ?

Qu. None will dare
 To serve them ill, when they are left to Laws ;
 But when a Counsellor, to save himself,
 Would lay Miscarriages upon his Prince,
 Exposing him to publick Rage and Hate ;
 O, 'tis an Act as infamously base,
 As should a common Soldier skulk behind,
 And thrust his Gen'ral in the Front of War :
 It shews he only serv'd himself before,
 And had no sense of Honour, Country, King ;
 But centred on himself ; and us'd his Master
 As Guardians do their Wards, with shews of care,
 But with intent to sell the publick Safety,
 And pocket up his Prince.

Pedro. (Aside.) Well said, i'faith ;
 This Speech is e'en too good for an Usurper.

Bertr. I see for whom I must be sacrific'd ;
 And, had I not been fotted with my zeal,
 I might have found it sooner.

Qu. From my sight !
 The Prince who bears an Insolence like this,
 Is such an Image of the Powers above,
 As is the Statue of the Thund'ring God,
 Whose Bolts the Boys may play with.

Bertr. Unreveng'd
 I will not fall, nor single.

Queen to Raymond, who kisses her hand.

[Exit Bertran cum suis.]

Qu. Welcome, Welcome :
 I saw you not before : one Honest Lord
 Is hid with ease among a Crowd of Courtiers ;
 How can I be too gratefull to the Father
 Of such a Son as Torrismond ?

Raym.

Raym. His Actions were but Duty.

Qu. Yet, my Lord,
All have not paid that Debt like noble Torrismond.
You hear how Bertran brands me with a Crime,
Of which your Son can witness I am free ;
I sent to stop the Murther, but too late ;
For Crimes are swift, but Penitence is slow :
The bloody Bertran, diligent in ill,
Flew to prevent the soft returns of Pity.

Raym. O curfed Haste of making sure a Sin !
Can you forgive the Traitor ?

Qu. Never, never :
'Tis written here in Characters so deep
That seven years hence, (till then should I not meet him,)
And in the Temple then, I'll drag him thence,
E'en from the holy Altar to the Block.

Raym. (Aside.) She's fir'd, as I would wish her ; Aid me Justice,
As all my ends are thine, to gain this Point ;
And ruin both at once : ——— It wounds indeed, [To her.
To bear Affronts too great to be forgiven,
And not have power to punish ; yet one way
There is to ruin Bertran.

Qu. O, there's none ;
Except an Host from Heaven can make such haste
To save my Crown as he will do to seize it :
You saw he came surrounded with his Friends,
And knew besides our Army was remov'd
To Quarters too remote for sudden use.

Raym. Yet you may give Commission
To some Bold Man whose Loyalty you trust,
And let him raise the Train-bands of the City.

Qu. Gross feeders, Lion-talkers, Lamb-like fighters.

Raym. You do not know the Virtues of your City,
What pushing force they have ; some popular Chief,
More noisic than the rest, but cries Halloo,
And in a trice the bellowing Herd come out ;
The Gates are barr'd, the Ways are barricado'd,
And One and All's the Word : true Cocks of th' Game,
That never ask for what, or whom, they fight ;
But turn 'em out, and shew 'em but a Foe,
Cry Liberty, and that's a Cause of Quarrel.

Qu. There may be Danger in that boist'rous Rout :
Who knows when Fires are kindled for my Foes,
But some new Blast of wind may turn those Flames
Against my Palace Walls.

Raym. But still their Chief
Must be some one whose Loyalty you trust.

Qu. And who more proper for that Trust than you,
Whose interests, though unknown to you, are mine?

Alph. Pedro, haste to raise the Rabble,
He shall appear to head 'em.

Raym. (Aside to Alphonso and Pedro,) First seize Bertran;
And then insinuate to them, that I bring
Their lawfull Prince to place upon the Throne.

Alph. Our lawfull Prince?

Raym. Fear not; I can produce him.

Pedro to Alphonso. Now we want
Your Son Lorenzo: what a mighty Faction
Would he make for us of the City Wives,
With, O, dear Husband, my sweet honey Husband,
Won't you be for the Colonel? if you love me,
Be for the Colonel; O, he's the finest Man! [Exeunt Alphonso, Pedro.]

Raym. (Aside.) So, now we have a Plot behind the Plot;
She thinks she's in the depth of my Design,
And that it's all for her, but time shall show,
She only lives to help me ruine others,
And last, to fall her self.

Qu. Now to you, Raymond: Can you guess no reason
Why I repose such confidence in you:
You needs must think

There's some more powerfull Cause than Loyalty:
Will you not speak to save a Lady's Blush?
Must I inform you 'tis for Torrismond,
That all this Grace is shown?

Raym. (Aside.) By all the Powers, worse, worse than what I fear'd.

Qu. And yet, what need I blush at such a Choice?

I love a Man who I am proud to love,
And am well pleas'd my Inclination gives
What Gratitude would force; O, pardon me;
I ne'er was covetous of Wealth before:
Yet think so vast a Treasure as your Son,
Too great for any private Man's possession;
And him too rich a Jewel to be set
In vulgar metal, or for vulgar use.

Raym. Arm me with Patience, Heaven.

Qu. How, Patience, Raymond!
What exercise of Patience have you here?
What find you in my Crown to be condemn'd?
Or in my Person loath'd? have I, a Queen,
Past by my Fellow-rulers of the World,
Whose vying Crowns lay glittering in my way,
As if the World were pav'd with Diadems?
Have I refus'd their Blood, to mix with yours,
And raise new Kings from so obscure a race,

Fate scarce knew where to find them when I call'd?
Have I heap'd on my Person, Crown, and State,
To load the Scale, and weigh'd my self with Earth,
For you to spurn the Balance?

Raym. Bate the last; and 'tis what I would say;
Can I, can any Loyal Subject see
With Patience such a stoop from Sovereignty,
An Ocean pour'd upon a narrow Brook?
My Zeal for you must lay the Father by,
And plead my Country's Cause against my Son.
What though his Heart be great, his Actions gallant;
He wants a Crown to poise against a Crown,
Birth to match Birth, and Power to balance Power.

Qu. All these I have, and these I can bestow;
But he brings Worth and Vertue to my Bed;
And Vertue is the Wealth which Tyrants want:
I stand in need of one whose Glories may
Redeem my Crimes, allie me to his Fame,
Dispell the Factions of my Foes on Earth,
Disarm the Justice of the Powers above.

Raym. The People never will endure this choice.

Qu. If I endure it, what imports it you?
Go raise the Ministers of my Revenge,
Guide with your Breath this whirling Tempest round,
And see its Fury fall where I design;
At last a time for just Revenge is given;
Revenge the Darling Attribute of Heaven:
But Man, unlike his Maker, bears too long;
Still more expos'd, the more he pardons wrong;
Great in forgiving, and in suffering brave;
To be a Saint he makes himself a Slave.

[Exit Queen.]

Raym. (solus,) Marriage with Torrismond! it must not be;
By Heaven it must not be; or, if it be;
Law, Justice, Honour bid farewell to Earth;
For Heaven leaves all to Tyrants.

Enter Torrismond, who kneels to him.

Torr. O, ever welcome, Sir,
But doubly now! you come in such a time,
As if propitious Fortune took a care
To swell my Tide of Joys to their full height,
And leave me nothing farther to desire.

Raym. I hope I come in time, if not to make,
At least to save your Fortune and your Honour:
Take heed you steer your Vessel right, my Son,
This Calm of Heaven, this Mermaid's Melody,
Into an unseen Whirlpool draws you fast,
And in a moment sinks you.

Torr. Fortune cannot:

And

And Fate can scarce : I've made the Port already,
 And laugh securely at the lazy storm,
 That wanted Wings to reach me in the deep.
 Your Pardon, Sir ; my Duty calls me hence ;
 I go to find my Queen, my earthly Goddess,
 To whom I owe my Hopes, my Life, my Love.

Raym. You owe her more perhaps than you imagine ;
 Stay, I command you stay, and hear me first,
 This hour's the very Crisis of your Fate,
 Your Good or Ill, your Infamy or Fame,
 And all the colour of your Life, depends
 On this important Now.

Torr. I see no danger ;
 The City, Army, Court espouse my Cause ;
 And, more than all, the Queen with publick favour Indulges my Pretensions to her Love.

Raym. Nay, if possessing her can make you happy,
 'Tis granted nothing hinders your Design.

Torr. If she can make me blest ! she only can :
 Empire, and Wealth, and all she brings beside,
 Are but the Train and Trappings of her Love :
 The sweetest, kindest, truest of her Sex,
 In whose Possession Years roll round on years,
 And Joys in Circles meet new Joys again :
 Kisses, Embraces, Languishing, and Death,
 Still from each other to each other move,
 To crown the various seasons of our Love :
 And doubt you if such Love can make me happy ?

Raym. Yes, for I think you love your Honour more.

Torr. And what can shock my Honour in a Queen ?

Raym. A Tyrant, an Usurper.

Torr. Grant she be.

When from the Conquerour we hold our Lives,
 We yield our selves his Subjects from that hour ;
 For mutual Benefits make mutual Ties.

Raym. Why, can you think I owe a Thief my Life,
 Because he took it not by lawless Force ?
 What if he did not all the ill he cou'd,
 Am I oblig'd by that t'assist his Rapines,
 And to maintain his Murthers ?

Torr. Not to maintain, but bear 'em unreveng'd ;
 Kings Titles commonly begin by Force,
 Which Time wears off, and mellows into Right :
 So Power, which in one Age is Tyranny,
 Is ripen'd in the next to true Succession :
 She's in Possession.

Raym. So Diseases are :
 Should not a lingering Fever be remov'd,

Because it long has rag'd within my Blood ?
Do I rebell when I would thrust it out ?
What, shall I think the World was made for One,
And Men are born for Kings, as Beasts for Men ;
Not for Protection, but to be devour'd ?
Mark those who dote on Arbitrary Power,
And you shall find 'em either hot-brain'd Youth,
Or needy Bankrupts, servile in their greatness,
And Slaves to some, to lord it o'er the rest.
O baseness, to support a Tyrant Throne,
And crush your free-born Brethren of the World !
Nay, to become a part of Usurpation ;
T' elpouse the Tyrant's Person and her Crimes,
And on a Tyrant get a Race of Tyrants,
To be your Country's Curse in after-Ages.

Torr. I see no Crime in her whom I adore,
Or if I do, her beauty makes it none ;
Look on me as a Man abandon'd o'er
To an eternal Lethargy of Love ;
To pull, and pinch, and wound me, cannot cure,
And but disturb the Quiet of my Death.

Raym. O Vertue ! Vertue ! what art thou become ?
That Men should leave thee for that Toy a Woman,
Made from the dross and refuse of a Man,
Heaven took him sleeping when he made her too ;
Had Man been waking he had ne'er consented.
Now Son suppose
Some brave Conspiracy were ready form'd,
To punish Tyrants, and redeem the Land,
Could you so far belie your Country's Hope,
As not to head the Party ?

Torr. How cou'd my Hand rebell against my Heart ?

Raym. How cou'd your Heart rebell against your Reason ?

Torr. No Honour bids me fight against my self ;
The Royal Family is all extinct,
And she who reigns bestows her Crown on me :
So must I be ungratefull to the Living,
To be but vainly pious to the Dead ;
While you defraud their Off spring of their Fate.

Raym. Mark, who defraud their Off-spring, you or I ?
For know there yet survives the lawfull Heir
Of Sancho's Blood, whom when I shall produce,
I rest assur'd to see you pale with Fear,
And trembling at his Name.

Torr. He must be more than Man who makes me tremble ;
I dare him to the Field with all the odds
Of Justice on his side, against my Tyrant :

Produce your lawfull Prince, and you shall see
How brave a Rebel Love has made your Son.

Raym. Read that : 'tis with the Royal Signet sign'd.
And given me by the King, when time shou'd serve
To be perused by you.

[Torrismond reads,

I the King.

*My youngest and alone surviving Son,
Reported dead & escape rebellious Rage,
Till happier times shall call his Courage forth
To break my Fetters, or revenge my Fate,
I will that Raymond educate as his,
And call him Torrismond ———*

If I am he, that Son, that Torrismond,
The World contains not so forlorn a Wretch !
Let never Man believe he can be happy !
For when I thought my Fortune most secure,
One fatal moment tears me from my Joys :
And when two Hearts were join'd by mutual Love,
The Sword of Justice cuts upon the Knot,
And severs 'em for ever.

Raym. True ; it must.

Torr. O cruel Man, to tell me that it must !
If you have any Pity in your Breast,
Redeem me from this Labyrinth of Fate,
And plunge me in my first Obscurity :
The Secret is alone between us two ;
And though you would not hide me from my self,
O yet be kind, conceal me from the World,
And be my Father still.

Raym. Your Lot's too glorious, and the Proof's too plain,
Now in the name of Honour, Sir, I beg you
(Since I must use Authority no more,)
On these old Knees I beg you, e'er I die,
That I may see your Father's Death reveng'd.

Torr. Why, 'tis the only bus'ness of my Life ;
My Order's issu'd to recall the Army,
And Bertran's Death resolv'd.

Raym. And not the Queen's ? O She's the chief Offender !
Shall Justice turn her Edge within your Hand ?
No, if she scape, you are your self the Tyrant,
And Murderer of your Father.

Torr. Cruel Fates,
To what have you reserv'd me !

Raym. Why that Sigh ?

Torr. Since you must know, but break, O break, my Heart,
Before I tell my fatal Story out,

Th' Usur-

The Double Discovery.

49

Th' Usurper of my Throne, my Houses Ruin,
The Murtherer of my Father, is my Wife!

Raym. O Horror! Horror! after this Alliance,
Let Tygers match with Hinds, and Wolves with Sheep,
And every Creature couple with his Foe.
How vainly Man designs when Heaven opposes?
I bred you up to Arms, rais'd you to Power,
Permitted you to fight for this Usurper,
Indeed to save a Crown, not her's, but yours,
All to make sure the Vengeance of this Day,
Which e'en this Day has ruin'd——one more question
Let me but ask, and I have done for ever:
Do you yet love the Cause of all your Woes?
Or, Is she grown (as sure she ought to be)
More odious to your sight than Toads and Adders?

Torr. O, there's the utmost Malice of my Fate,
That I am bound to hate, and born to love!

Raym. No more. — Farewell my much lamented King.

(Aside.) I dare not trust him with himself so far
To own him to the People as their King,
Before their Rage has finish'd my Designs
On Bertran and the Queen, but in Despight
Ev'n of himself I'll save him.

[Exit Raymond.]

Torr. 'Tis but a moment since I have been King,
And weary on't already; I'm a Lover,
And lov'd, possess; yet all these make me wretched;
And Heav'n has giv'n me Blessings for a Curse.
With what a load of Vengeance am I prest,
Yet never, never can I hope for Rest;
For when my heavy Burthen I remove,
The weight falls down, and crushes her I love.

[Exit Torrismond.]

ACT V.

SCENE, A Bed-chamber.

Enter Torrismond.

Torr. LOVE, Justice, Nature, Pity and Revenge
Have kindled up a Wild-fire in my Breast,
And I am all a Civil-war within!

Enter Queen and Teresa at a distance.

My Leonora there!

Mine? Is she mine? My Father's Murtherer mine?

Oh! that I could with Honour love her more,
Or hate her less with Reason! See, she weeps;
Thinks me unkind, or false, and knows not why

H

I thus

I thus estrange my Person from her Bed:

Shall I not tell her? no: 'twill break her Heart:

She'll know too soon her own and my Misfortunes.

[Exit.

Qu. He's gone, and I am lost; Didst thou not see

His sullen Eyes? how gloomily they glanc'd;

He look'd not like the Torrismond I lov'd.

Ter. Can you not guess from whence this Change proceeds?

Qu. No: there's the Grief, Teresa: Oh, Teresa!

Fain would I tell thee what I feel within,

But shame and modesty have ty'd my Tongue!

Yet, I will tell, that thou mayst weep with me.

How dear, how sweet his first Embraces were!

With what a Zeal he join'd his Lips to mine!

And suckt my Breath at every word I spoke,

As if he drew his Inspiration thence:

While both our Souls came upward to our Mouths,

As neighbouring Monarchs at their Borders meet:

I thought: Oh no; 'Tis false: I could not think;

'Twas neither Life nor Death, but both in one.

Ter. Then sure his Transports were no less than yours,

Qu. More, more! for by the high-hung Tapers light

I could discern his Cheeks were glowing red,

His very Eye-balls trembl'd with his Love,

And sparkl'd through their Casements humid Fires:

He sigh'd and kiss'd, breath'd short, and wou'd have spoke,

But was too fierce to throw away the time;

All he cou'd say was Love, and Leonora.

Ter. How then can you suspect him lost so soon?

Qu. Last night he flew not with a Bridegroom's haste,

Which eagerly prevents the pointed hour;

I told the Clocks, and watch'd the wailing Light,

And listn'd to each softly treading step,

In hope 'twas he: but still it was not he.

At last he came, but with such alter'd Looks,

So wild, so ghastly, as if some Ghost had met him;

All pale, and speechless, he survey'd me round;

Then, with a Groan, he threw himself a-bed,

But far from me, as far as he cou'd move,

And sigh'd, and toss'd, and turn'd, but still from me.

Ter. What, all the night?

Qu. Even all the live-long night.

At last: (for, blushing, I must tell thee all.)

I press'd his Hand, and laid me by his Side,

He pull'd it back, as if he touch'd a Serpent.

With that I burst into a flood of Tears,

And ask'd him how I had offended him?

He answer'd nothing, but with Sighs and Groans,

So restless past the night : and at the Dawn
Leapt from the Bed, and vanish'd.

Ter. Sighs and Groans,
Paleness and Trembling, all are signs of Love ;
He only fears to make you share his Sorrows.

Qu. I wish 'twere so : but Love still doubts the worst ;
My heavy Heart, the Prophetess of Woes,
Forebodes some ill at hand : To sooth my sadness
Sing me the Song which poor Olympia made

A S O N G.

I.

Farewell ungratefull Traytor,
Farewell my perjur'd Swain,
Let never injur'd Creature
Believe a Man again.
The Pleasure of Possessing
Surpasses all expressing,
But 'tis too short a Blessing,
And Love too long a Pain.

II.

'Tis easie to deceive us
In Pity of your Pain.
But when we love you leave us
To rail at you in vain.
Before we have deserv'd it,
There is no bliss beside it,
But she that once has try'd it
Will never love again.

III.

The Passion you pretended
Was only to obtain,
But when the Charm is ended
The Charmer you disdain.
Your Love by ours we measure
Till we have lost our Treasure,
But Dying is a Pleasure,
When Living is a Pain.

Re-enter Torrismond.

Torr. Still she is here, and still I cannot speak ;
But wander like some discontented Ghost
That oft appears, but is forbid to talk.

Qu. O, Torrismond, if you resolve my Death,
You need no more but to go hence again ;
Will you not speak ?

Torr. I cannot

[Going again.]

Qu. Speak! Oh, speak!
Your Anger wou'd be kinder than your Silence.

Torr. Oh!

Qu. Do not sigh, or tell me why you sigh?

Torr. Why do I live, ye Powers?

Qu. Why do I live, to hear you speak that word?
Some black-mouth'd Villain has defam'd my Vertue:

Torr. No! No! Pray let me go.

Qu. (Kneeling.) You shall not go:
By all the Pleasures of our Nuptial-bed,
If ever I was lov'd, though now I'm not,
By these true Tears, which from my wounded Heart
Bleed at my Eyes. ———

Torr. Rise.

Qu. I will never rise,
I cannot chuse a better place to die.

Torr. Oh! I wou'd speak, but cannot.

Qu. (Rising.) Guilt keeps you silent then: you love me not:
What have I done? ye Powers, what have I done?
To see my Youth, my Beauty, and my Love
No sooner gain'd, but slighted and betray'd:
And like a Rose just gather'd from the Stalk,
But only smelt, and cheaply thrown aside
To wither on the ground.

Ter. For Heav'n's sake, Madam, moderate your Passion.

Qu. Why nam'st thou Heaven? there is no Heaven for me,
Despair, Death, Hell, have seiz'd my tortur'd Soul:
When I had rais'd his grov'ling Fate from ground,
To Pow'r and Love, to Empire and to Me;
When each Embrace was dearer than the first;
Then, then to be condemn'd: then, then thrown off;
It calls me old, and wither'd, and deform'd,
And loathsome: Oh! what Woman can bear Loathsome?
The Turtle flies not from his billing Mate,
He bills the closer: but ungratefull Man,
Base barbarous Man, the more we raise our Love,
The more we pall, and cool, and kill his ardour.
Racks, Poison, Daggers, rid me but of Life;
And any Death is welcome.

Torr. Be witness all ye Powers that know my Heart,
I would have kept the fatal Secret hid,
But she has conquer'd, to her Ruin conquer'd:
Here, take this Paper, read our Destinies;
Yet do not; but in kindness to your self,
Be ignorantly safe.

Qu. No! give it me.
Even though it be the Sentence of my Death.

Torr.

The Double Discovery.

33

Torr. Then see how much unhappy Love has made us.
O Leonora! Oh!

We two were born when fullen Planets reign'd;
When each the other's Influence oppos'd;
And drew the Stars to Factions at our Birth.
Oh! better, better had it been for us
That we had never seen, or never lov'd.

Qu. There is no Faith in Heaven, if Heaven says so.
You dare not give it.

Torr. As unwillingly,
As I wou'd reach out Opium to a Friend
Who lay in Torture, and desir'd to die.
But now you have it, spare my fight the pain
Of seeing what a World of Tears 'twill cost you:
Go silently enjoy your part of Grief,
And share the sad Inheritance with me.

Qu. I have a thirsty Fever in my Soul,
Give me but present Ease, and let me die.

[Gives the Paper.]

[Exit Queen and Teresa.]

Enter Lorenzo.

Lorenzo. Arm, arm, my Lord, the City Bands are up—
Drums beating, Colours flying, Shouts confus'd;
All clustring in a heap, like swarming Hives,
And rising in a moment.

Torr. With design to punish Bertran, and revenge the King,
'Twas order'd so.

Lorenzo. Then you're betray'd, my Lord.
'Tis true, they block the Castle kept by Bertran,
But now they cry, Down with the Palace, Fire it,
Pull out th' usurping Queen.

Torr. The Queen, Lorenzo! durst they name the Queen?

Lorenzo. If railing and reproaching be to name her.

Torr. O Sacrilege! Say quickly who commands
This vile blaspheming Rout?

Lorenzo. I'm loth to tell you,
But both our Fathers thrust 'em headlong on,
And bear down all before 'em.

Torr. Death and Hell!

Somewhat must be resolv'd, and speedily,
How say'st thou, my Lorenzo? dar'st thou be
A Friend, and once forget thou art a Son,
To help me save the Queen?

Lorenzo. (Aside.) Let me consider;
Bear Arms against my Father? he begat me;
That's true; but for whose sake did he beget me?
For his own sure enough: for me he knew not.
Oh! but says Conscience: Fly in Nature's Face?
But how if Nature fly in my Face first?

Then

Then Nature's the Aggressor : Let her look to't ———

— He gave my Life, and he may take it back : ———

No, that's Boys play, say I. ———

'Tis Policy for Son and Father to take different Sides :

For then, Lands and Tenements commit no Treason.

(To Tor.) Sir, upon mature consideration I have found my Father

To be little better than a Rebel, and therefore I'll do

My best to secure him for your sake ; in hope you may

Secure him hereafter for my sake.

Torr. Put on thy utmost speed to head the Troops,
Which every moment I expect t' arrive :

Proclaim me, as I am, the lawfull King :

I need not caution thee for Raymond's Life,

Though I no more must call him Father now.

Lorenzo. (Aside.) How ! not call him Father ?

I see Preferment alters a Man strangely,

This may serve me for an Use of Instruction,

To cast off my Father when I am great.

Methought too he call'd himself the lawfull King :

Intimating sweetly that he knows what's what

With our Sovereign Lady : Well, if I rout my

Father, as I hope in Heaven I shall, I am in a fair

Way to be a Prince of the Blood : Farewell, General ;

I'll bring up those that shall try what mettle there is in Orange-Tawny. [Exit.]

Torr. (at the door.) Hasten there, command the Guards be all drawn up

Before the Palace-Gate. ——— By Heaven, I'll face

This Tempest, and deserve the Name of King.

O, Leonora, beauteous in thy Crimes,

Never were Hell and Heaven so match'd before !

Look upward, Fair, but as thou look'st on me ;

Then all the Blest will beg that thou may'st live,

And even my Father's Ghost his Death forgive.

[Ex. Tor.]

SCENE, The Palace-yard.

Drums and Trumpets within.

Enter Raymond, Alphonso, Pedro, and their Party.

Raym. Now, valiant Citizens, the time is come

To shew your Courage and your Loyalty :

You have a Prince of Sancho's Royal Blood,

The Darling of the Heavens, and Joy of Earth ;

When he's produc'd, as soon he shall, among you ;

Speak, what will you adventure to re-seat him

Upon his Father's Throne ?

Omn. Our Lives and Fortunes.

Raym. What then remains to perfect our Success,

But o'er the Tyrant's Guards to force our way ?

Omn. Lead on, Lead on.

Drum

The Double Discovery.

35

Drums and Trumpets on the other side.

Enter Torrismond and his Party; as they are going, so fight he speaks.

Torr. to his. Hold, hold your Arms.

Raym. to his. Retire.

Alph. What means this Pause?

Pedro. Peace: Nature works within them.

[Tor. and Ray. go apart.]

Torr. How comes it, good old Man, that we two meet

On these harsh Terms? Thou very reverend Rebel,

Thou venerable Traitor, in whose Face

And hoary Hairs Treason is sanctified;

And Sin's black die seems blanch'd by Age to Vertue.

Raym. What Treason is it to redeem my King,

And to reform the State?

Torr. That's a stale Cheat,

The Primitive Rebel, Lucifer, first us'd it,

And was the first Reformer of the Skies.

Raym. What if I see my Prince mistake a Poison,

Call it a Cordial? Am I then a Traitor,

Because I hold his Hand, or break the Glafs?

Torr. How dar'st thou serve thy King against his Will?

Raym. Because 'tis then the only time to serve him.

Torr. I take the blame of all upon my self,

Discharge thy Weight on me.

Raym. O never, never!

Why, 'tis to leave a Ship tost in a Tempest

Without the Pilot's Care.

Torr. I'll punish thee,

By Heaven I will, as I would punish Rebels,

Thou stubborn loyal Man.

Raym. First let me see

Her punisht, who misleads you from your Fame,

Then burn me, hack me, hew me into pieces,

And I shall die well pleas'd.

Torr. Proclaim my Title,

To save th' effusion of my Subjects Blood, and thou shalt still

Be as my Foster-father near my Breast,

And next my Leonora.

Raym. That word stabs me.

You shall be still plain Torrismond with me,

Th' Abetter, Partner, (if you like that name,)

The Husband of a Tyrant, but no King,

Till you deserve that Title by your Justice.

Torr. Then farewell Pity, I will be obey'd.

(To the People.) Hear, you mistaken Men, whose Loyalty

Runs headlong into Treason: See your Prince,

In me behold your murder'd Sancho's Son;

Dismiss your Arms, and I forgive your Crimes.

Raym.

Raym. Believe him not, he raves, his words are loose
As heaps of Sand, and scattering, wide from sense.
You see he knows not me his natural Father ;
But aiming to possess th' usurping Queen,
So high he's mounted in his airy hopes,
That now the Wind is got into his Head,
And turns his Brains to Frenzy.

Torr. Hear me yet, I am ———

Raym. Fall on, fall on, and hear him not :
But spare his Person for his Father's sake.

Pedro. Let me come, if he be mad, I have that shall cure him.
There's no Surgeon in all Arragon has so much
Dexterity as I have at breathing of the Temple vein.

Torr. My Right for me.

Raym. Our Liberty for us.

Omn. Liberty, Liberty, ———

[As they are ready to fight.]

Enter Lorenzo and his Party.

Lorenzo. On forfeit of your Lives lay down your Arms.

Alph. How, Rebel, Art thou there?

Lorenzo. Take your Rebel back again, Father mine.
The beaten Party are Rebels to the Conquerours.
I have been at hard-head with your butting Citizens ;
I have routed your Herd ; I have disperst them ;
And now they are retreated quietly,
From their extraordinary Vocation of Fighting in
The Streets, to their ordinary Vocation of Cozening
In their Shops.

Torr. to Raym. You see 'tis vain contending with the Truth,
Acknowledge what I am.

Raym. You are my King : wou'd you wou'd be your own ;
But by a fatal fondness you betray
Your Fame and Glory to th' Usurper's Bed :
Enjoy the Fruits of Blood and Parricide,
Take your own Crown from Leonora's Gift,
And hug your Father's Murtherer in your Armes.

Enter Queen and Teresa : Women.

Alph. No more : behold the Queen.

Raym. Behold the Basilisk of Torrismond,
That kills him with her Eyes, I will speak on,
My Life is of no farther use to me :
I wou'd have chaffer'd it before for Vengeance :
Now let it go for Failing.

Torr. (Aside.) My heart sinks in me while I hear him speak,
And every slackn'd fibre drops its hold,
Like Nature letting down the Springs of Life :
So much the name of Father awes me still.
Send off the Crowd :

The Double Discovery.

57

For you, now I have conquer'd, I can hear with Honour your Demands.

Lor. to Alph. Now, Sir, who proves the Traitor? My Conscience

Is true to me, it always whispers right when

I have my Regiment to back it.

[Exeunt omnes præter Tor. Ray. Leo.]

Tor. O Leonora! What can Love do more?

I have oppos'd your ill Fate to the utmost:

Combated Heaven and Earth to keep you mine:

And yet at last that Tyrant Justice! Oh——

Qu. 'Tis past, 'tis past; and Love is ours no more:

Yet I complain not of the Powers above;

They made m'a Miser's Feast of Happiness,

And cou'd not furnish out another meal.

Now by yon' Stars, and Heaven, and Earth, and Men;

By all my Foes at once; I swear, my Torrismond,

That to have had you mine for one short day

Has cancell'd half my mighty sum of Woes:

Say but you hate me not.

Tor. I cannot hate you.

Raym. Can you not? Say that once more;

That all the Saints may witness it against you.

Qu. Cruel Raymond!

Can he not punish me but he must hate?

O! 'tis not Justice, but a brutal Rage,

Which hates th'Offender's Person with his Crimes:

I have enough to overwhelm one Woman,

To lose a Crown and Lover in a day:

Let Pity lend a Tear when Rigour strikes.

Raym. Then, then you should have thought on Tears and Pity,

When Vertue, Majesty, and hoary Age

Pleaded for Sancho's Life.

Qu. My future days shall be one whole Contrition;

A Chapel will I build with large Endowment,

Where every day an hundred aged men

Shall all hold up their withered hands to Heaven,

To pardon Sancho's Death.

Tor: See, Raymond, see; she makes a large amends:

Sancho is dead; no punishment of her

Can raise his cold stiff Limbs from the dark Grave;

Nor can his blessed Soul look down from Heaven,

Or break th'eternal Sabbath of his Rest:

To see with Joy her Miseries on Earth.

Raym. Heaven may forgive a Crime to Penitence,

For Heaven can judge if Penitence be true;

But Man, who knows not hearts, should make Examples,

Which, like a Warning-piece, must be shot off,

To fright the rest from Crimes.

Qu. Had I but known that Sancho was his Father,

I would have pour'd a Deluge of my Blood
To save one drop of his.

Torr. Mark that, inexorable Raymond, mark !

'Twas fatal Ignorance that caus'd his Death.

Raym. What if she did not know he was your Father ?
She knew he was a Man, the best of Men,
Heaven's Image double stamp'd, as Man and King.

Qu. He was, he was, e'en more than you can say ;
But yet ———

Raym. But yet you barbarously murder'd him.

Qu. He will not hear me out !

Torr. Was ever Criminal forbid to plead ?
Curb your ill-manner'd Zeal,

Raym. Sing to him, Syren ;
For I shall stop my Ears : now mince the Sin,
And mollifie Damnation with a Phrase.
Say you consented not to Sancho's Death,
But barely not forbid it.

Qu. Hard-hearted Man, I yield my guilty Cause,
But all my Guilt was caus'd by too much Love.
Had I for Jealousie of Empire sought
Good Sancho's Death, Sancho had dy'd before.
'Twas always in my Power to take his Life :
But Interest never could my Conscience blind,
Till Love had cast a mist before my Eyes ;
And made me think his Death the only means
Which could secure my Throne to Torrismond.

Torr. Never was fatal Mischiefe meant so kind,
For all she gave has taken all away.
Malicious Pow'rs ! Is this to be restor'd ?
'Tis to be worse depos'd than Sancho was.

Raym. Heaven has restor'd you, you depose your self :
Oh ! when young Kings begin with scorn of Justice,
They make an Omen to their after-Reign,
And blot their Annals in the foremost page.

Torr. No more ; lest you be made the first Example,
To shew how I can punish.

Raym. Once again :
Let her be made your Father's Sacrifice,
And after make me hers.

Torr. Condemn a Wife !
That were to atone for Parricide with Murder !

Raym. Then let her be divorc'd ; we'll be content
With that poor scanty Justice : Let her part.

Torr. Divorce ! that's worse than Death, 'tis Death of Love.

Qu. The Soul and Body part not with such pain
As I from you : but yet 'tis just, my Lord :

The Double Discovery.

39

I am th' Accurst of Heaven, the Hate of Earth,
Your Subjects Detestation, and your Ruin :
And therefore fix this doom upon my self.

Torr. Heav'n! Can you wish it! to be mine no more!

Qu. Yes, I can wish it as the dearest Proof
And last that I can make you of my Love.
To leave you blest I would be more accurst
Than Death can make me; for Death ends our Woes,
And the kind Grave shuts up the mournfull Scene :
But I would live without you to be wretched long,
And hoard up every moment of my life,
To lengthen out the Payment of my Tears,
Till e'en fierce Raymond, at the last shall say,
Now let her die, for she has griev'd enough.

Torr. Hear this, hear this, thou Tribune of the People:
Thou zealous, publick Blood-hound, hear, and melt.

Raym. (Aside.) I could cry now, my Eyes grow womanish,
But yet my Heart holds out.

Qu. Some solitary Cloister will I chuse,
And there with holy Virgins live immur'd :
Coarse my Attire, and short shall be my Sleep,
Broke by the melancholy midnight Bell:
Now, Raymond, now be satisfied at last.
Fasting and Tears, and Penitence and Prayer
Shall do dead Sancho Justice every hour.

Raym. (Aside.) By your leave, Manhood!

Tor. He weeps, now he's vanquish'd.

Raym. No! 'tis a salt Rheum that sealds my Eyes.

Qu. If he were vanquish'd, I am still unconquer'd,
I'll leave you in the height of all my Love,
E'en when my Heart is beating out his way,
And struggles to you most.

Farewell, a last Farewell! My dear, dear Lord,
Remember me; speak, Raymond, will you let him?
Shall he remember Leonora's Love,
And shed a parting Tear to her Misfortunes?

Raym. (Almost crying.) Yes, yes, he shall; pray go.

Tor. Now, By my Soul, she shall not go : why, Raymond,
Her every Tear is worth a Father's Life ;
Come to my Arms, come, my fair Penitent,
Let us not think what futures Ills may fall,
But drink deep Draughts of Love, and lose 'em all. [Exit. Tor. with the Queen.]

Raym. No matter yet, he has my Hook within him,
Now let him frisk and flounce, and run and roll,
And think to break his hold. He toils in vain :
This Love, the Bait he gorg'd so greedily,
Will make him sick, and then I have him sure.

[Wipes his Eyes.]

The Spanish Fryar ; or,

Enter Alphonso, and Pedro.

Alph. Brother, there's News from Bertran ; he desires Admittance to the King, and cries aloud, This day shall end our Fears of Civil War ; For his safe Conduct he entreats your Presence, And begs you would be speedy.

Raym. Though I loath

The Traytor's fight, I'll go : Attend us here.

[Exit Raymond.]

Enter Gomez, Elvira, Dominic, with Officers, to make the Stage as full as possible.

Pedro. Why, how now Gomez ? what mak'st thou here with a whole Brotherhood of City-Bailiffs ? why, thou look'st like Adam in Paradise, with his guard of Beasts about him.

Gom. Ay, and a Man had need of them, Don Pedro : for here are the two old Seducers, a Wife and Priest, that is, Eve and the Serpent, at my Elbow.

Dom. Take notice how uncharitably he talks of Churchmen.

Gom. Indeed you are a charitable Belswagger : my Wife cry'd out Fire, Fire ; and you brought out your Church-buckets, and call'd for Engines to play against it.

Alph. I am sorry you are come hither to accuse your Wife, her Education has been vertuous, her Nature mild and easie.

Gom. Yes, she's easie with a Vengeance, there's a certain Colonel has found her so.

Alph. She came a Spotless Virgin to your Bed.

Gom. And she's a Spotless Virgin still for me—she's never the worse for my wearing, I'll take my Oath on't : I have liv'd with her with all the Innocence of a Man of Threescore ; like a peaceable Bedfellow as I am——

Elv. Indeed, Sir, I have no reason to complain of him for disturbing of my Sleep.

Dom. A fine Commendation you have given your self ; the Church did not marry you for that.

Pedro. Come, come, your Grievances, your Grievances.

Dom. Why, Noble Sir, I'll tell you.

Gom. Peace Fryar ! and let me speak first. I am the Plaintiff. Sure you think your are in the Pulpit where you preach by hours.

Dom. And you edifie by minutes.

Gom. Where you make Doctrines for the People, and Uses and Applications for your selves.

Pedro. Gomez, give way to the old Gentleman in black.

Gom. No ! the t'other old Gentleman in black shall take me if I do ! I will speak first ! nay, I will, Fryar ! for all your Verbum Sacerdotis, I'll speak truth in few words, and then you may come afterwards, and lye by the Clock as you use to do. For, let me tell you, Gentlemen, he shall lye and forswear himself with any Fryar in all Spain : that's a bold word now——

Dom. Let him alone : let him alone : I shall fetch him back with a Circum-bendibus I warrant him.

Alph. Well, what have you to say against your Wife, Gomez ?

Gom. Why, I say, in the first place, that I and all men are married for our Sins, and that our Wives are a Judgment ; that a Barthelour-cobler is a happier man man than a Prince in Wedlock; that we are all visited with a Household-Plague, and, Lord have mercy upon us, should be written on all our doors.

Dom. Now he reviles Marriage, which is one of the seven blessed Sacraments.

Gom. 'Tis liker one of the seven deadly Sins: but make your best on't, I care not: 'Tis but binding a Man Neck and Heels for all that! But as for my Wife, that Crocodile of Nilus, she has wickedly and traiterously conspir'd the Cuckoldom of me her anointed Sovereign Lord: and, with the help of the aforesaid Fryar, whom Heaven confound, and with the Limbs of one Colonel Hernando, Cuckold-maker of this City, devilishly contriv'd to steal her self away, and under her Arm feloniously to bear one Casket of Diamonds, Pearls, and other Jewels, to the Value of 30000 Pistols. Guilty, or Not guilty; How say'st thou, Culprit?

Dom. False and scandalous! Give me the Book. I'll take my corporal Oath point-blank against every particular of this Charge.

Elv. And so will I.

Dom. As I was walking in the Streets, telling my Beads, and praying to my self, according to my usual custom, I heard a foul Out-cry before Gomez his Portal; and his Wife, my Penitent, making doleful Lamentations: Thereupon, making what haste my Limbs would suffer me, that are crippl'd with often kneeling, I saw him Spurning and Fisting her most unmercifully; whereupon, using Christian Arguments with him to desist, he fell violently upon me, without respect to my Sacerdotal Orders, pusht me from him, and turn'd me about with a Finger and a Thumb, just as a Man would set up a Top. Mercy, quoth I, Damme, quoth he. And still continued Labouring me, till a good-minded Colonel came by, whom, as Heaven shall save me, I had never seen before.

Gom. O Lord! O Lord!

Dom. Ay, and O Lady! O Lady too! I redouble my Oath, I had never seen him. Well, this Noble Colonel, like a true Gentleman, was for taking the weaker part you may be sure—whereupon this Gomez flew upon him like a Dragon, got him down, the Devil being strong in him, and gave him Baffinado on Baffinado, and Buffet upon Buffet, which the poor, meek Colonel, being prostrate, suffer'd with a most Christian Patience.

Gom. Who? he meek? I'm sure I quake at the very thought of him: why, he's as fierce as Rhodomont, he made Assault and Battery upon my Person, beat me into all the colours of the Rainbow. And every word this abominable Priest has utter'd is as false as the Alcoran. But if you want a through-pac'd Liar that will swear through thick and thin, commend me to a Fryar.

Enter Lorenzo, who comes behind the Company, and stands at his Father's back unseen, over against Gomez.

Lorr. (Aside.) How now! What's here to do? my Cause a trying, as I live, and that before my own Father: now Four-score take him for an old bawdy Magistrate, that stands like the Picture of Madam Justice, with a pair of Scales in his Hand, to weigh Lethery by Ounces.

Alph. Well—but all this while, who is this Colonel Hernando?

Gom. He's the First-begotten of Beelzebub, with a Face as terrible as Demogorgon.

[Lorenzo peeps up over Alphonso's Head, and stares at Gomez.]

No! I lye, I lye:

He's a very proper, handsome fellow! well proportion'd, and clean shap'd, with a Face like a Cherubin.

Peel.

Pedro. What, backward and forward Gomez? dost thou hunt counter?

Alph. Had this Colonel any former Design upon your Wife? for, if that be prov'd, you shall have Justice.

Gom. (Aside.) Now I dare speak; let him look as dreadfully as he will. I say, Sir, and I will prove it, that he had a leud Design upon her Body, and attempted to corrupt her Honesty. [Lor. lifts up his Fist clench'd at him.]

Gom. I confess my Wife was as willing — as himself; and, I believe, 'twas she corrupted him: for I have known him formerly a very civil and modest Person.

Elvira. You see, Sir, he contradicts himself at every word: he's plainly mad.

Alph. Speak boldly Man! and say what thou wilt stand by: did he strike thee?

Gom. I will speak boldly: He struck me on the Face before my own threshold, that the very Walls cry'd shame on him. [Lor. holds up again.]

'Tis true, I gave him Provocation, for the Man's as peaceable a Gentleman as any is in all Spain.

Dom. Now the Truth comes out in spight of him.

Pedro. I believe the Fryar has bewitch'd him.

Alph. For my part, I see no wrong that has been offer'd him.

Gom. How? no wrong? why, he ravish'd me with the help of two Soldiers, carried me away vi & armis, and would have put me into a Plot against the Government. [Lor. holds up again.]

I confess, I never could endure the Government, because it was Tyrannical: but my Sides and Shoulders are Black and Blew, as I can shew, and shew the Marks of 'em. [Lor. again.]

But that might happen too by a Fall that I got yesterday upon the Pebbles. [All laugh.]

Dom. Fresh Straw, and a dark Chamber: a most manifest Judgment, there never comes better of railing against the Church.

Gom. Why, what will you have me say? I think you'll make me mad: Truth has been at my Tongue's end this half hour, and I have no power to bring it out for fear of this bloody-minded Colonel.

Alph. What Colonel?

Gom. Why, my Colonel: I mean, my Wife's Colonel, that appears there to me like my malin geniu, and terrifies me.

Alph. (Turning.) Now you are mad indeed, Gomez; this is my Son Lorenzo.

Gom. How! your Son Lorenzo! it is impossible.

Alph. As true as your Wife Elvira is my Daughter.

Lorenzo. What, have I taken all this pains about a Sister?

Gom. No, you have taken some about me: I am sure, if you are her Brother, my Sides can shew the Tokens of our Alliance.

Alph. to Lor. You know I put your Sister into a Nunnery, with a strict command, not to see you, for fear you should have wrought upon her to have taken the Habit, which was never my Intention; and consequently, I married her without your knowledge, that it might not be in your power to prevent it.

Elvira. You see, Brother, I had a natural affection to you.

Lorenzo. What a delicious Harlot have I lost! Now, Pox upon me, for being so near a kin to thee.

Elvira. However, we are both beholden to Fryar Dominic, the Church is an indulgent Mother, she never fails to do her part. Dom.

Dom. Heaven! what will become of me?

Gom. Why you are not like to trouble Heaven; those fat Guts were never made for mounting.

Lorenzo. I shall make bold to disburthen him of my hundred Pistols, to make him the lighter for his Journey: Indeed, 'tis partly out of Conscience, that I may not be accessory to his breaking his Vow of Poverty.

Alph. I have no secular Power to reward the Pains you have taken with my Daughter: But I shall do't by Proxy, Fryar; your Bishop's my Friend, and is too honest to let such as you infect a Cloister.

Gom. Ay, do Father-in-law, let him be stript of his Habit, and disorder'd — I would fain see him walk in Quervo, like a cas'd Rabbit, without his holy Fur upon his Back, that the World may once behold the inside of a Fryar.

Dom. Farewell, kind Gentlemen: I give you all my Blessing before I go —

May your Sisters, Wives, and Daughters, be so naturally leud, that they may have no occasion for a Devil to tempt, or a Fryar to pimp for 'em.

[Exit, with a Rabble pushing him.]

Enter Torrismond, Leonora, Bertran, Raymond, Teresa, &c.

Torr. He lives! he lives! my Royal Father lives!

Let every one partake the general Joy.

Some Angel with a Golden Trumpet sound,

King Sancho lives! and let the echoing skies,

From Pole to Pole rebound, King Sancho lives.

O Bertran, O! no more my Foe, but, Brother:

One act like this blots out a thousand Crimes.

Bertr. Bad Men, when 'tis their Interest, may do good:

I must confess, I counsel'd Sancho's Murther;

And urg'd the Queen by specious Arguments:

But still suspecting that her Love was chang'd,

I spread abroad the Rumour of his Death,

To found the very Soul of her Designs:

Th' Event you know was answering to my Fears:

She threw the Odium of the Fact on me,

And publicly avow'd her Love to you.

Raym. Heaven guided all to save the Innocent.

Bertr. I plead no Merit, but a bare Forgiveness.

Torr. Not only that, but Favour: Sancho's Life,

Whether by Vertue or Design preserv'd,

Claims all within my power.

Qu. My Prayers are heard;

And I have nothing farther to desire,

But Sancho's leave to Authorize our Marriage.

Torr. Oh! fear not him! Pity and he are one;

So mercifull a King did never live;

Loth to revenge, and easie to forgive:

But let the bold Conspirator beware,

For Heaven makes Princes its peculiar Care.

[Exeunt omnes.]

EPILOGUE,

EPILOGUE.

By a Friend of the Author.

T Here's none, I'm sure, who is a Friend to Love;

But will our Fryar's Character approve;

The ablest Spark among you sometimes needs

Such pious help for charitable Deeds.

Our Church, alas! (as Rome objects) does want

These Ghostly Comforts for the falling Saint;

This gains them their Whore Converts, and may be

One Reason of the Growth of Popery.

So Mahomet's Religion came in fashion;

By the large leave it gave to Fornication.

Fear not the guilt, if you can pay for't well,

There is no Dives in the Roman Hell.

Gold opens the straight gate, and lets him in;

But want of money is a mortal sin.

For all besides you may discount to Heaven,

And drop a Bead to keep the Tallies even.

How are Men cozen'd still with shews of good!

The Band's best Mask is the grave Fryar's Hood.

Though Vice no more a Clergy-man displeases,

Than Doctors can be thought to hate Diseases:

'Tis by your living ill, that they live well,

By your Debauches their fat Paunches swell.

'Tis a mock-war between the Priest and Devil,

When they think fit, they can be very civil.

As some who did French Counsels most advance,

To blind the World, have rail'd in Print at France.

Thus do the Clergy at your Vices bawl,

That with more ease they may engross them all.

By damning yours, they do their own maintain.

A Church-man's godliness is always gain.

Hence to their Prince they will superior be;

And civil Treason grows Church-Loyalty:

They boast the gift of Heaven is in their power;

Well may they give the God they can devour.

Still to the sick and dead their claims they lay;

For 'tis on Carrion that the Vermin prey.

Nor have they less Dominion on our Life,

They trot the Husband, and the ypace the Wife.

Rouze up, you Cuckolds of the Northern climes,

And learn from Sweden to prevent such crimes.

Unman the Fryar, and leave the holy Drone

To hum in his forsaken Hive alone;

He'll work no Honey when his sting is gone.

Your Wives and Daughters soon will leave the Cells,

When they have lost the sound of Aaron's Bells.
